Chaney

Files For Reelection

Lonnie Chaney, Democratic Assemblyman for District 7, filed today for his third term. Assemblyman Chaney is currently Chairman of the Health and Welfare Committee, the Environment and Public Resources Committees, as well.

When elected, he will seek additional funds for a mental health hospital in Southern Nevada, more funds for vocational training, emergency funds for those people not qualified for the Welfare System, and tax relief for people on fixed incomes.

Assemblyman Chaney is known for championing the underdog; if anyone in District 7 needs help, they know that he is always on call to give the necessary help.

UNLV's star running back, Raymond Strong (now with the Atlanta Falcons), was married Saturday, July 1st at Circus Circus Chapel to Janine Jordan of Oakland, Calif.

Strong who was one leading rusher at the university for the past two years will play his first professional season this year with Atlanta. They plan to make their home here in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Rules and Laws

There are no rules, but there are laws, but the law is broken every day and every way. The (alligator) or agency has one rule only (Push em till they break, yell at them, scream at them. Threaten them with losing their job, threaten them with garnishment.) Anything but get the money. Agencies work on 50 percent. It's fairly common for agencies to stick illegal interest charges and collection fees. If your bill was $150.00 it could be well over $200.00, by the time you go to court.

Legislature is working on new laws and rules, to put a rope around this kind of alligator. But while the legislature is working on new laws and rules, it is left up to the courts and the judge to see that the defendant's civil rights and existence are protected. The (alligator) has to be stoped, and wiped out, and he will be, this I promise.
