BUSINESS IN THE BLACK CONTINUED FROM PAGE 2 COLUMN 3

A reduction in the beef supply is already expected and sugar production is predicted at three percent below the 1977-78 crop year, according to F. O. Lict, respected commodity economist.

Worldwide weather renders a crop production forecast, including one for 1978-79 highly vulnerable. However, world population still rises at a rate of around 80 million mouths each year.

Many governments are dedicated to increasing and improving diets and living standards. China is convinced it should now eat bread and not noodles! Such demands on the U. S. food production capacity will combine to drive U. S. consumer food prices at least the earlier predicted ten percent or more this year.

NEWS OF HEALTH

Teeth

Tooth decay is actually a disease called dental caries. In fact, it is the most widespread human disease, probably affecting 98 percent of the population.

Caries are produced by colonies of bacteria in the mouth. When we eat, small deposits of food accumulate between the teeth, in the grooves and on the chewing surfaces. Bacterial enzymes acting on food starches and sugars produce lactic acid. This acid dissolves tooth enamel and produces cavities.

But by keeping your teeth smooth and polished, you can reduce the effect of the bacteria. A new home dental-care system, the ToothPro, cleans like a professional dental machine—safely and more effectively than a regular or electric toothbrush.

Water containing minute amounts of fluoride can reduce dental caries—but only in children during the years when their teeth are forming.

Dear Editor,

Here's an issue that makes the Nevada Industrial Commission, the Nevada Power Company, James Ray Houston, and Nixon look like innocent babes in comparison. If you think the former two are blatant ripoffs and the latter two have unmitigated gall in showing their faces, consider the rape each Nevada motorist experiences at the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Since when is it constitutional for parasitical legislators to force Nevadens to widen the profit margins of parasitical insurance companies with registration of each vehicle? I don't recall voting for that mandate. Speaking of recall, there's more than one way to "initiate" protests!

Well, if Carter can ignore the U.S. Congress when it comes to chop-ney, I guess our legislators can ignore the constituencies when it comes to insurance company lobbyists and lackeys... right? WRONG!

I wouldn't mind signing a commitment to bear responsibility for damages by my vehicle. And I wouldn't mind our parasitical judiciary enforcing that pledge, however, I don't like the big-money special interest groups and carpet-bagging insurance companies getting fat on a totalitarian dictate which treats the population like dumb dows.

Is there no so-called lawyer around here who can expose the unconstitutionality of legislation that blatantly favors the arrogant special-interest groups? Are you all part of the "system?" Compulsory insurance laws are as brazen and insipid as Communistic gun-prohibition shams. What's next, genocide a la Red-China?

Motorists, send this letter to your local bureaucrat with an endorsement. It's time we stopped getting pushed around by "ourselves." Santini and List are the only ones I know of that listen to the little people.

Santini's address is:

House of Representatives
