FOR OUR TOMORROWS

Carrying three men, the Double Eagle II completed the first successful balloon trip across the Atlantic Ocean.

She swooped down from her historic voyage in France on August 17, 1978. Throughout her 137-hour voyage, 200 6-volt Eveready Alkaline batteries powered her lights, radios and navigation system.

Clear sailing ahead is expected for the batteries of tomorrow that Union Carbide is readying today. The power provided by compressing three powders together in different proportions may provide the power to make reality of devices that are only thoughts and ideas.

WHAT YOUR STARS
SAY

February 28—March 6

ARIES — March 21-April 20

If you haven't been taking good care of your body, your body may very well collapse and refuse to go another further. Don't be so hard-headed that you don't listen to the body's request for rest and repair.

TAURUS — April 21-May 21

It is strange for you to have not, and it is even stranger for you to want not. Realization is coming down on you and you are sensing that "...if you don't have someone to love you... you really don't have anything."

GEMINI — May 22-June 21

Your Self and your Not Self are battling for perspective. You still want things to look the way you see them, rather than see things the way they look. Be warned that Time is not in your favor. Decide.

CANCER — June 22-July 23

A swoosh of vitality or luck may pervade your atmosphere, giving you things you want or inspiration you need. Thank God for second chances and Time to re-do. Listen to your heart...hear what it says.

LEO—July 23-August 23

Hold on to Hope and Faith if your heart is breaking. You may not be a believer at this moment, but the future rewards the steadfast and the persevering—and those who truly Keep the Faith!

VIRGO — August 24-September 23

Take special care of your body because it is a Temple for your very own Spirit. Be assured also that timidity is acute sensitivity and not cowardice. Good generals know when to retreat.

LIBRA — September 24-October 23

Justice is not an automatic and free response in the society. Lawmakers who are men decide what's right and wrong, good or bad. If you disagree with these decisions, you must be prepared to spend your life fighting.

SCORPIO—October 24-November 22

If you've been getting away with murder—better look again. The Lords of Karma are getting ready to summon you to court, and if you owe, you may have to pay the price—including interest.

SAGITTARIUS—November 23-December 21

Good ideas are there in abundance, but you may not be able to put them to immediate use. Practice patience, study your maps, analyze small print and understand the guidelines before you journey hither and yon.

CAPRICORN — December 22-January 20

If you're so high up that nothing can touch you, at least look down on the aspiring and help the ones who show great promise. Bending the back and the knees is a safeguard against rigidity.

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19

You could become very angry or very hurt if someone breaks a promise, but don't get an attitude or hold a grudge. All humans are human, and most humans sometimes make mistakes.

PISCES — February 20-March 20

If you've been a slave to indecision, cheer up! Something may come into your life which clarifies goals, objectives, purpose and cause. Those who ask for guidance will receive just that!

W.E.B. DuBOIS AND BOOKER T. WASHINGTON
REVISITED

We continue a most important and in-depth look at Dr. W.E.B. DuBois and Dr. Booker T. Washington. Older persons and thoughtful college and university (or high school) honors students will want to examine the bibliographies of these men. A period of 2 to 4 years of leisurely focus upon their lives will bring the kind of rich insight needed to re-interpret their lives today. Shorter periods of formal study, or of work on your own, will also be rewarding. In this part of the series which we present, you may enjoy listing fresh insights and intuitions which you have gained.

Part II of Two Parts

In a few hours the great question with which the Anglo-Saxon race has been grappling for centuries had been thrown upon these people to be solved. These were the questions of a home, a living, the rearing of children, education, citizenship, and the establishment and support of churches. Was it any wonder that within a few hours the wild rejoicing ceased and a feeling of gloom seemed to pervade the slave quarters? To some it seemed that, now that they were in actual possession of it, freedom was a more serious thing than they had expected to find it. Some of the slaves were seventy or eighty years old; their best days were gone. They had no strength with which to earn a living in a strange place and among strange people, even if they had been sure where to find a new place of abode. To this class the problem seemed especially hard. Besides, deep down in their hearts there was a strange and peculiar attachment to "old Marster" and "old Missus," and to their children, which they found it hard to think of breaking off. With these they had spent in some cases nearly a half-century, and it was no light thing to think of parting. Gradually, one by one, stealthily at first, the older slaves began to wander from the slave quarters back to the "big house" to have a whispered conversation with their former owners as to the future.
