

Putting a lid on your mood!

*Fashions
by Lei Stroughter*

*Photos
by John S. Riley*

Many years ago, hats were worn as a symbol for the type of job you had or to designate your social status in society. However, in today's world, hats have taken on a new role.

Not only do we purchase them to coordinate with a particular outfit, but also to express a certain mood or feeling we have about ourselves.

The key, of course, in deciding what looks good for you, is your facial structure. For example, if you have a narrow face, a style in the order of a pillbox hat may be what you're looking for; and there are a variety of attractive pillbox hats in many stores around town.

However, if you have a wide face, you may want to try something with a bit of a brim, you'll be able to wear this type very well.

The models here have selected various styles, to give you a variety of ideas to choose from when shopping for something for a special occasion, or to wear at the disco or just for fun.

So, to add that finishing touch to any outfit you wear or to express your mood, "put a lid on it," by selecting something that's made especially for you.