

HIGH STEPPING

Over 51,000 people jammed into Giants Stadium last weekend to see the likes of Ashford & Simpson (above) performing in the first Budweiser Summer Fest and to have a good time (below). The eight-hour extravaganza also featured top recording artists Teddy Pendergrass, The O'Jays and GQ. The second of the Budweiser-sponsored concerts is slated for Soldier Field in Chicago on Saturday, July 19.

GOODMAN & BROWN TAKE A MOMENT

"Two-Way Street," "Sexy Mama," "Look At Me" and "Girls," Ray, Goodman & Brown garnered their biggest hit yet with their first album for Polydor. The upcoming LP is being awaited with fervent anticipation by Ray, Goodman & Brown's legion of admirers. It will once again be produced by Vince Castellano on behalf of Dark Cloud Productions.

New Jersey native Harry Ray's roots include harmonizing while hanging out at the projects in Longbranch, while Al Goodman grew up singing Church spirituals in Mississippi. Billy Brown was born in Atlanta, the son of a preacher, where he sang with a group known as the Broadways, who had a hit single in "Going, Going, Gone," when he was all of fourteen years old.
