

Lola Falana

By Ed Brown

Lola Falana, is all about.

Real success really comes to those who work hard for it—and this amply describes what the premier female nightclub performer of the world, Lola Falana, is all about. There's an old adage that says: Lola gets what Lola wants. This has not necessarily held true for Lola Falana for she has shed much sweat and tears to earn the high entertainment pinnacle upon which she rides. direction by taking her to dancing school.

Recently she received a deserved title of First Lady Of Las Vegas Entertainment — a crown she wears well. Lola is one of the hardest Lola's first big break came while dancing in a chorus line at Atlantic City. Sammy Davis, Jr. discovered her there and arranged her appearance Coincidentally, Lola wrote the lyrics for the Faberge "tigress" campaign.

Her real entertainment ascension began as co-headliner at various Las Vegas hotels with appearances along with much involved with the fund-raising telethons such as Jerry Lewis' Muscular Dystrophy drives and others. She has made appearances on a number of local fund-raising efforts.

first lady of Vegas entertainment has heart of gold for those in need working entertainers in the world. She is a super talent — a premiere singer, actress and comedienne.

Except for her long time friend Wayne Newton, Lola has broken and set just about every conceivable attendance and box office record in Las Vegas and at the Aladdin Hotel. Her impact has reached international proportions.

Born in Camden, New Jersey, Lola, one of six children, was raised in Philadelphia. Her father was a welder and her mother a housewife. It was a busy and involved family — very close.

Her preparation for a professional career began at the age of 3. Her aunt is to be credited for propelling her in that in the smash Broadway hit "Golden Boy."

Following her Broadway stint, Lola went on a 5-year trek through Europe was featured in a series of TV special and motion pictures.

During 1975, she was nominated for a "Tony" for her starring role in "Dr. Jazz." She had also made a number of sparkling appearances on the "Tonight Show" with Johnny Carson. These engagements had kept her profile high in television and had enhanced her continuing growing interests for motion picture direction and production.

Lola was also instrumental in Faberge receiving a national advertising award for her role in the commercial.

Danny Thomas, Bob Newhart, Alan King, Robert Goulet and Lou Rawls.

She hit the top in December 1978 when she received the top billing at the various hotels. Her other annual schedules include appearances at Lake Tahoe & Resorts

International, Atlantic City.

Recently, Lola signed a recording contract with Motown Records and will soon be making her first album.

Lola Falana has been very, very busy shaping her career and has received world-wide acceptance, but she is never too busy to help with many worthwhile causes.

She made an appearance last week along with Wayne Newton and others to raise funds for the former Aladdin Hotel employees and had assumed full financial responsibility for her last appearance at the Aladdin Hotel Bagdad Room. This engagement ended last Saturday.

Lola Falana is truly the FIRST LADY OF LAS VEGAS ENTERTAINMENT... and we are all very proud of her philanthropic endeavors.
