

'First Class For All Classes'

'Operation Independence' Makes Mark

Operation Independence is first class and for all classes.

This amply describes the true dynamics that enshroud, the inner ingredients that make this great institution one of the most outstanding in the community.

Operation Independence is very special.

It was organized in 1965, under the Anti-Poverty Act, to provide programs designed to help families to move from a state of dependency to one of independence.

A community survey was made to determine some of the basic needs and one factor that stood out was the need for adequate child care. At the time, it was one of the most serious problems for the West Las Vegas area.

Concerned individuals in the community sprang into action, thus was born Operation Independence.

The facility operates a private self-help pre-school supported by parents with some assistance from the United Way. Its program is designed to train children to achieve at the pre-school level before they enter the public school.

The Montessori method forms the basis of the curriculum while other highly recognized methods are combined for a well-rounded program.

Lubertha Johnson, the facility director, says "the Montessori environment centers around four general areas, practical life, sensorial, language, math, and social science." She also indicated that art, music, games and physical activities are included.

Currently, Operation Independence has scheduled their pre-school registrations for August 11 through 22 with reduced fee rates. Rates are as low as $3.75 daily if one registers before August 22. The registration fee is only $2.00.

Operation Independence is within everyone's reach. Operation Independence is very special and an asset to the total community.
