

Air Cools Off, Fall Fashion Warming Up

The air has cooled down quite a bit and the pleasant feeling of fall seems to be rapidly approaching.

As we look forward to the days ahead, with many of us going back to school or making plans for the ture months, it seems to be an energizing period for a fresh start in spirits.

Sweaters seem to have taken the lead in fashion for the fall season.

Sweater dresses and jackets are a big item on the market and rightfully so.

Knits made of angora, mohair and acrylic are a visible proof of a great look to add to your fall wardrobe.

Sweater dresses furnished through the courtesy of Pigeons of the Meadows Mall Sweater jacket furnished through the courtesy of Fashion Gal of Sunrise City Shopping Center.

Fashions by Lei Stroughter

Photographs by John S. Riley