

Galaxy Int'l. Contestants Share $25,000

CAROLE DeFLEICE

Phoenix, Ariz.—Not winning in Las Vegas is nothing new to those who visit the casinos with the hope of becoming rich. This became very apparent to Miss Carole DeFleice (L) of Cleveland, Ohio, and Miss Angela Heard (R) of Los Angeles, Calif., when their names were not called during the announcement of the ten semi-finalists or the five finalists at the 5th annual MISS GALAXY INT'L. Pageant, hosted by the Land mark Hotel/Casino. But, all was not lost when Mr. Johnny Ricco, President of Science of Performing, Inc., after being highly impressed by the efforts of YOUTH TOGETHER, Inc. to improve the lives of young people, awarded Carole DeFleice, an excellent Shakespearian actress, and Angela Heard, a graduate of the Peabody Conservatory of Dance, a $12,500 scholarship each. Both will receive training in the art of delivering lines, staging, voice, dance, projecting, timing, and inflection at the Science Of Performing, Inc. studios in Las Vegas, Nev. At the successful completion of training, Carole and Angela will be considered for roles in the Las Vegas opening of the "Nat King Cole Story." The MISS GALAXY INTERNATIONAL PAGEANT is an affiliate with Science of Performing, Inc. and the International Boxing Hall Of Fame headquartered in Las Vegas, who each year will offer a $25,000 performing scholarship and a wide range of appearances within the professional boxing circuit. Qualified and interested state pageant promoters and contestants should call YOUTH TOGETHER, INC., a Federal tax exempt program at (602) 272-5496 for info.
