whipping past students at Kermit Booker Elementary School, Highland and Balzar, and the shooting of a private television repairman near Miller and Commerce Street. The repairman, 32 year old Tommie Jackson, 5071 Rappahannock St., was taken to the Southern Nevada Memorial Hospital and released late Monday. He had been hit in the arm from one of the two shots fired into his unmarked truck. Jackson is co-owner of the TV Center.

Vanek said Metro was beefing up the patrols in the area. "We don't want it to escalate to where the community becomes lawless," he added.

State Senator Joe Neal, State Assemblyman Lonie Chaney and Dr. James B. McMillan, president of the local chapter, NAACP, all who attended the news conference with Vanek, had high praise for the conduct of the Metro Police.

gangs but are fearful of retribution if they reveal the names to the law enforcement authorities.

It is important for them to realize that the use of Metro's Secret Witness Hotline could be the real answer toward breaking the "drug grip" and at the same time alleviate the many fears and apprehensions among the residents in the community.

This drug activity is widespread and needs to come to "a screeching halt." It is ruining many of our potential leaders of tomorrow.

The community must now come to the rescue and wipe out this deadly threat with positive action and through the proper aggressive unification of community resources to "kill" this germ.
