Carter, who are they to say that the Rev. Jerry Falwell, president of Moral Majority, should stay out of politics?

Let Houston preacher Harold L. Champion rant against Sen. John Glenn (D-Ohio) as being "anti-family"; let Christian Voice scream for a defense of Taiwan against "an attack by Godless Communist China" and extol the racist Ian Smith regime in Rhodesia as a "pro-American nation under attack by atheistic Marxist forces."

Ok, so Ed McAteer, founder of Religious Roundtable, is on record as saying that his conservative religious coalition "will put Ronald Reagan in office." The Gallup Poll of Sept. 7 says that President Carter "is clearly the favorite among the fifth of the electorate who can be described as evangelicals."

It may be that this country needs a right-wing scare badly. How else to wake up the clergymen, the deacons, the decent churchgoers who were such a force for racial and social justice in the early 1960s?

We need more political participants, more voters in this society, not fewer. The answer to America's problems has never been to throw a Draconian net over preachers we deem to be "bad"; it is to arouse to their responsibilities others proclaiming themselves to be ordained by God.

best friends are black." Many really need the "litmus" test. Time will really tell who the genuine "liberals" are. Is there really a need to say, "some of my best friends are----?"
