Caesars' OMNIMAX Features Film 'Living Planet'

A must for the entire family... "Living Planet" is a breath-taking aerial odyssey that emphasizes the irreplaceable beauty of our earth and the need to preserve it. The 30-minute film underscores the fragility of our earth and its resources and ber, 1979, with the spectacular film, "To Fly." Since that time, over one-million people have visited this futuristic theatre, located in the Fantasy Tower of Caesars Palace.

"Living Planet," produced by Academy Award winner, Francis beautifully illustrates areas of the world which are as fresh and unspoiled today as they must have been so long ago.

You'll travel five continents, traverse lush jungles, barren desert and the polar north. You'll visit civilizations past and see a world recreated as it might have been eons ago.

The Omnimax Theatre, fifth and largest of its type in the world, first opened in Decem-

MDA Has Bounce-A-Thon

Jump, bounce or jog are the key words for an upcoming Muscular Dystrophy Association fund raiser called the bounce-a-thon.

For those who don't have the slightest idea what a bounce-a-thon is Joe Stedino, Co-Chairman for the event, explains, "people who loke to run, jump, jog or exercise will have a chance to put all their energy to raising money for MDA while they simultaneously help their bodies. People will be bouncing on mini-trampolines called 'Vitalizers' for a solid 15 minutes, collecting a certain amount of money per minute from donations. It's as simple as that."
