Carter has her own distinctive style but she admits that when she first came to town, she spent as much time as she could watching other entertainers to learn the little tricks of the trade.

"Whenever I could, I would go watch Ann-Margret," she said. "And the late Dinah Washington has been my idol for years. She was always very lady-like. When I watch them (other performers), I do it not competitively but by comparison."

One of the main things she's learned from her observations, she said, is "how to sell a song."

At the same time, though, she realizes that she must "sell" in her own style, based on what's natural, the same time."

Making it in the entertainment business, she admits, really isn't any different than any other field when it comes to learning the trade.

The State of Nevada Department of Transportation will on its own initiative, take affirmative action, including the imposition of contract sanctions and the initiation of appropriate legal proceedings under any applicable State or Federal law to achieve equal employment opportunity on Federal-aid Highway Projects and will actively cooperate with the Federal Highway Administration in all investigations and enforcement actions undertaken by the Federal Highway Administration.
