

DAs Office Plans Crime Safeguards

All criminals, no matter what their color, should be prosecuted, according to Chief

Deputy District Attorney Booker Evans. In a recent interview following the horrendous kidnap-murder of 18 year old Jamey Walker, Evans stated that it is time more blacks were represented in the Las Vegas power structure and that blacks can help ensure the safety and integrity of minorities by working in the law and order professions. He cited these as being the reasons why he joined the DA's office rather then go into private practice.

Regarding the charge by some prominent community members that Metro police did not act promptly in the Jamey Walker case because she was black, Evans voiced the opinion that were there more blacks in the law enforcement agencies and offices, it would be less possible for whites to victimize members of the minority community. He stated further that black judges and prosecutors are notoriously fair when representing whites, but it is not necessarily true when the shoe is on the other foot.

Some think that his views on crime are extremely tough.
