SENIOR FIRE AIDE JOHNSON
FIRE SAFETY TIPS

Ira Johnson

Wiring should be large enough to carry the load for which it was designed. Check for loose connections, frayed cords, broken plugs, broken switches or outlets. If fuses or breakers are overloading, you should have a qualified electrical serviceman determine what the problem is since the situation needs immediate repair. Never overload a circuit. If someone smells anything overheated, they should treat it as a potential fire. Disconnect the faulty equipment and call the fire department to investigate it.

Fire Department Announces New Smoke Detector Program

The Las Vegas Fire Department's Education Division, is pleased to announce its new Smoke Detector Maintenance Program.

The Maintenance Program will serve low income senior citizens within the Las Vegas area. The smoke detectors will be cleaned on a monthly basis.
