sed and remanded Dunn's case for a new trial.

The court in recognizing the miscarriage of justice against Rev. Dunn made the following statement:

"The principle issue in this appeal from a conviction of conspiracy to counterfeit United States currency is whether certain marginally prejudicial irregularities, when combined with AN EXTREMELY THIN CASE FOR THE PROSECUTION, require a new trial.

The only evidence connecting Albert Dunn with the conspiracy was the testimony of one of the counterfeiters who was caught in the act of manufacturing money and who was granted immunity for testifying against Dunn. All of the so-called corroborating evidence of Dunn's cooperation in the venture was consistence with his innocence."

The court stated further that:

"After reading and rereading the transcript, we are left with PROFOUND uneasiness about the proof of the guilt of this defendant. Dunn was a friend of two of the counterfeiters and a remote acquaintance of one. The Secret Service, tipped off by an informer, kept constant surveillance by sight and sound of the entire operation from day one until the arrest. This surveillance failed to place Dunn inside the print shop or with counterfeiters while they were engaged in anything illegal."

The U.S. Attorney's Office asked for a rehearing on this ruling, but the Ninth Circuit Court denied it with one sentence: "Appellee's petition for rehearing is denied."

In light of the foregoing statements by the court, you would think that the United States Attorney's Office would not attempt to prosecute the Rev. Dunn again. Well, you are wrong. Dunn is scheduled for retrial on August 11, 1981, a date which he learned about by reading the newspaper.
