A Word Through Bishop E. N. Webb:

Bishop E. N. Webb

The Sin Of Omission

"Whoever knows what is right to do and fails to do it, for him it is a sin." James 4:17.

Medical personnel often face dilemmas in helping people in emergencies. Compassion compels them to help. They are also aware that they may be financially liable. Many states have passed the "Good Samaritan" laws exempting medical personnel from liability for helping in emergencies.

The story of the Good Samaritan shows that the man helping the stricken Jew fulfilled nothing harmful. Theirs was the sin of omission.

For us God has set a standard higher than that of the Law. Not a stern commandment but the love of God in Christ Christians are mindful of God's action toward them. God could have let the world flounder in sin. But instead He sent His Son into the world for the salvation of all. God's love is the sent His son onto the world for the salvation of all. God's love is the power working in them so they can do what should be done.

Lord, may I never sin against You by refusing to help.

God's requirement of loving thy neighbor. The priest and the Levite, who failed to assist, were guilty of breaking the law, though they did constrains Christians to be ready to help. When the victims of natural catastrophes need food and clothing, they will be first to respond.

CLARK COUNTY COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Three-Part Seminar

A three-part seminar, "Coping With Death," was led by New York author, Dr. Robert Raab, adjunct professor of Sociology at Nassau Community College.

The how-to's of surviving the death of a loved one; getting started again; and returning to the world of the living, was covered in the seminar which ran from July 13-15 in the Community Baptist Church on Cheyenne Avenue adjacent to the college campus in North Las Vegas.

The special problems of widows, widowers, and children were also covered along with experimental sharing of thoughts and emotions.

A second seminar which will be led by Dr. Raab on July 20-22 is called "Singlespeak" and deals with the single life.

The last in the series of three seminars led by the author of a number of books including "Coping With Divorce," will deal with the topic of the same name starting July 27.

For further information on registering for any of the seminars contact Theo Byrns at 643-6060, ext. 268.
