GOD REMEMBERS --

By Bishop
E. N. Webb

Almost two million customers of Common Wealth Edison Company in the Chicago area, it is reported, will soon be getting their utility bills made out by an electronic brain.

A machine that remembers? Yes it seems almost impossible. God, too remembers — He remembers our sorrows and

NO PEACE IN THE MIDEAST

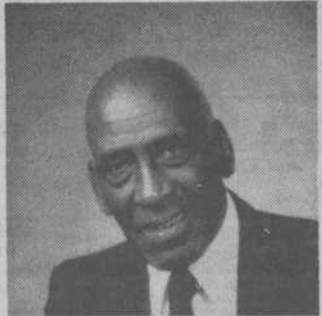

Get ready, you Medes, you Ethiopians, Black Men Of America, for you must take charge of ruling this whole Earth, in 1990, if not before.

Should there be any Church or organization which wants to hear me out, let them write me at: P.O. Box 1110 tears. But ever more important, he forgets our debts and sins, when we put our trust in Him.

I will come to explain the whole matter.

Christ bore our sins in His body, that we being dead to sin, should live unto righteousness. For this reason He says: "I will be merciful to their unrighteousness, and their sins and iniquities will I remember no more."

How good and loving is our God. Our sins are blotted out when we commit ourselves to the Lord Jesus Christ.

The art of forgetting is vital in the moral, social and spiritual progress of the individual and often our future happiness and success depends on our ability to forget. The undesirable events of the past resentful recollections breed hatred and jealousy,

The way to forget hatred, envy and jealousy is to practice love, kindness, courtesy and forgiveness.

one-bedroom apartment-

The rebates must be figured by the landlord as of July 1, even if the landlord is not able to do his computations until September and is not able to return the money until that time. The rebate will be in effect for one year.

The legislature also provided for the enforcement of the rebate plan to tenants. It funded two additional positions for the taxation department to help enforce the rebate formula. If a property owner fails to rebate any money to a tenant, the tenant may file a complaint with the taxation department.

The department may in turn take several actions including contacting the landlord and explaining the law to him. If the landlord still refuses to pay the rebate, the department can then subpoena his records, figure out what the landlord owes the tenant and then notify the tenant, who can then go to court and sue the landlord.

The rebate law also applies to stores which lease space from landlords.

Culinary Eagle Watch Paper To Be Printed

A group of members from Culinary Union No. 226 have organized a new 'watchdog' organization named Eagle Watch, whose purpose, according to pledges of its members, is to keep an eye out for abuses of rank and file members by both employers and the union itself.

The organization will publish a newspaper, which is scheduled to come out with its first edition this weekend. According to one of Eagle Watch's organizers, Dennis McCarthy, 30,000 copies of the paper will be distributed throughout the Las Vegas area in hotels and other locations convenient to union members.

Money for the paper, which is to be published monthly, comes from the members' pockets and donations from sympathizers.

This first edition will introduce the officers of Eagle Watch and will urge members to vote in Tuesday's election for the local three-member joint executive board, which is responsible for negotiating union contracts.

expect the President to support.

Of equal importance is the Reagan approach to "states" rights." The Administration is a vocal proponent of block grants and of giving increased power to the states. Yet it is precisely at the regional and state level that, for historical reasons, discrimination remains a significant problem. For example, due to a variety of complex factors, in the South, black workers earn 78 percent of the income of white Southerners. Throughout the rest of the country, however, the earnings of black and white workers are nearly identical.

In defending his economic policies, Ronald Reagan frequently asserts that "A rising tide lifts all boats." He, however, appears to have forgotten that those who are without boats may very well drown.

Rent Rebates Now Discussed

The last session of the Nevada legislature provided in its tax package for decreased property taxes. This law stipulated that 90 percent of the realized savings experienced by landlords should be passed back to their tenants.

The law became effective July 1.

Therefore, Nevadans who rent homes, apartments or businesses should soon be receiving a rebate from their landlords.

Property owners are now receiving a notice about their taxes which tells them what their tax would have been prior to the legislature's new tax formula and what it is now with the formula in effect. The difference between the two is the sum of money the landlord must rebate back to his tenants.

The landlord must also figure the amount of rebate going to tenants on the basis of the number of rooms that a tenant rents. For example, more rebate must go to a tenant renting a two-bedroom apartment, than to one who rents a governments who will either raise taxes or cut services. By vastly increasing military purchases, inflation will be sparked.

And, most serious of all, by cutting the incomes of the poorest citizens, the policy encourages alienation and bitterness that are likely, in the long run, to prove more dangerous and more expensive than a budget in deficit.

This budget represents the almost perfect matching of bad economic policy with bad social policy.

activity, a condition which could, as we are now learning, physically damage an individual immensely. Many of these people have to give up their jobs without knowing whether or not they are going to get another one.

It was these conditions which led PATCO to endorse Ronald Reagan for President in 1980. Mr. Reagan had indicated in a letter to PATCO in October of 1980 that he understood their problems and that if he was elected President, a solution would be forth coming.

Mr. Reagan is now President and his solution to PATCO problems has been to fire them for striking and to have their leaders placed in leg irons and cuffs and hauled off to jail. Mr. Reagan takes the position that when the air traffic controllers were hired, they took an oath that they would not strike. He states further that the strike is illegal and against the law. The logic which Mr. Reagan seems to be employing is that as long as there is a law, irrespective of the working conditions, the controllers should not strike. This logic would have made Adolph Eichmann an innocent man. Eichmann killed six million Jews following the law.

Thoreau, Gandhi, King — all of these gentlemen have taught us something about civil disobedience to an unjust law. The PATCO strike is not illegal in the true sense of the word, but an act of civil disobedience toward recalcitrant men who would use the law to hide their failure to correct an unjust condition. If anyone sees that an injury could come to himself or others, he has a duty to act in a fashion which would heighten the conscientiousness of others toward redressing the problem.

This is what PATCO is doing.
