changes in the community.

It is too bad, however, that our representatives in the Assembly did not see the need to come forward and join these ministers in their quest. The Assemblymen of this community may have made a mistake by not honoring the ministers' invitation to talk about the problems of this community. Their lack of response gave the impression that they were above these ministers and that their positions as elected officials seemingly have become ones in which the community must respond to them and their wishes. It should be the other way around. The ministers extended their hands to these Assemblymen and, presumably, because those hands were not white, they were not grasped.

Progress in this community should not be judged by the number of white hands we shake, but instead by the improvement in the quality of life of our community. If the ministers will adopt this as their object, they will have a dynamite organization, an organization which will gain the respect of the community and the recognition of them as the leaders they are.

NEVADA'S LARGEST AND MOST COMPLETE BLACK COMMUNITY NEWSPAPER

WAITING CHILDREN

Allen is an attractive and well-built black boy who is waiting in a children's home in hopes of being adopted. Allen will soon be thirteen years old. He needs a loving and secure family which can provide support and guidance as he enters his early teen years.

Currently Allen is in the seventh grade at school. He has the potential for average or higher achievement, but he is not strongly motivated to work hard in school. He gets more accomplished if he studies alone as he is easily distracted by others around him. He needs adoptive parents who can encourage him to use his many abilities.

Allen is well liked by his cottage parents at the home and also by the other children. He is a quiet, soft spoken boy with very nice manners. Allen seems shy at first, but he is able to make friends easily. He enjoys games, sports, and he attends church regularly.

There are a few areas in which Allen has room for improvement. He does a poor job completing routine tasks around his cottage. He often starts arguments and can be easily lead by his peers into sometimes unwise activities. He has also been known to lie and steal. Yet his behavior is constantly improving and his worker describes Allen as a "neat kid."

Allen is an abandoned child. He needs very much to be truly wanted by a family of his own.

Allen may be slow to trust adoptive parents, but he should respond well to warmth and reassurance. Allen is waiting for a "forever" family. He is waiting for you!

HOW YOU CAN ADOPT

The Las Vegas SENTINEL, working with AASK (Aid to Adoption of Special kids) hopes to find homes for these children. AASK is looking for people who can give love and nurturing to hard-to-place children. Prospective parents may be single or married.

Subsidies (payments to the adopting family each month and medical expenses) are available for many of the children. Subsidies depend on the financial situation of the adoptive family.

If you'd like more information on how to adopt a special child or how you can help financially support the AASK program, please call 876-7420 or write AASK Adoption Agency, 3305 W. Spring Mountain Road, Suite 92, Las Vegas, 89102.

Adoption is a specific legal matter, and the Las Vegas SENTINEL can answer no questions concerning the children.

Local Educators Attend Confab

Local educators, Tippy Reid, Doris Johnson and Brian Fox, recently returned from the 38th Biennial Council and Diamond Jubilee meeting of Phi Delta Kappa, the professional fraternity in education, which was held in Chicago.
