Theatre of Silence Returns To Las Vegas

The famed mime artistry troupe Theatre of Silence returns to Las Vegas May 6 and 7. They will perform both nights at Las Vegas High School Auditorium beginning at 7:30 p.m.

For the first time since bringing their special brand of mime entertainment to Las Vegas, the group will not hold special school level performances. The troupe is made up of students from Montana State University at Bozeman. All share a love for the deaf. The company performs in the sign language of the deaf, but also utilizes the oral reading of the lines so that both deaf and hearing can enjoy the show.

The theme for this year's production centers on "The West — Its Land and Its People," and will feature such historical characters from the Wild West as Sitting Bull, Jesse James and Calamity Jane.

Tickets are available at $3 per person from any speech therapist in the Clark County School District or call Nancy Crosby at 384-0077.
