

EVERLINE SHAW NAMED EXEMPLARY MOTHER OF THE YEAR

There was a record number of nominees for the 14th Annual Clark County Mother of the Year Awards which were held May 2 at the Holiday Inn-Center Strip. Among the winners was Everline Shaw, who was named the Exemplary Mother of the Year.

A widow and the mother of six children, she has maintained a home for her daughter and five sons, while being very active in the community. A resident of Las Vegas since 1945, she has been involved in religious, civic and humanitarian activities for many years. She is chairman of the Missionary Club and the Ruth Circle Mission of the New Jerusalem Baptist Church, where she is a member. She also holds a licensed Missionary certificate.

She has worked in the housekeeping departments of several Strip hotels and has been employed with the Clark County School District as a family aide. She presently works at her Alma Mater, the Las Vegas High School.

Her daughter Darlene works for EG&G operations here in Las Vegas; her son Harry is a director of food and beverage with the Marriott Hotel chain in Massachusetts; son Michael is a banking coordinator in Phoenix; son Paul is with the Army National Guard here in Las Vegas; son Gary attends the University of Arizona and has been drafted by a Canadian football team; and son Tony attends the University of Nevada, Reno.

Rec Center Imposter Arrested

The Clark County District Attorney's office is seeking information about the man who had presented himself under false pretenses.

He is described as 6 feet 4 inches, 210 pounds, with brown hair and eyes. He had also represented himself as a coach from a youth organization looking for team sponsors.

A man meeting this description had approached the Las Vegas Sentinel on three occasions during the past six months seeking funds to buy uniforms for community basketball and softball teams. On each occasion, the Sentinel demanded that bills be presented from a reputable sporting goods firm before any donations.

CCCTA MEMBERSHIP PASSES 3000

The Clark County Classroom Teachers Association recently passed the 3000 mark in its continuing membership drive and celebrated by especially honoring the teacher who turned out to be the 3000th member to sign up. This teacher is Drusilla Davis, a first grade teacher at Fay Herron Elementary School.

provide the use of engravers for the marking of personal property and volunteers will be trained to assist the Police Department in implementing crime prevention programs and in related security matters. CRIME PREVENTION PROGRAM OUTLET NOW AT NUCLEUS PLAZA

Nucleus Plaza, formerly called the Golden West Shopping Center, announces an open house at Metro's newest Crime Prevention Center within the Shopping Plaza at 932 West Owens. This is the culmination of several years effort by the City of Las Vegas to establish an economic nucleus in the West Las Vegas Community.

Revitalization of the Shopping Plaza in an area characterized by low and moderate income families has been slowed down by the unwillingness of merchants to locate in an area so difficult to secure. Recognition of this fact led Metro to assume an assertive stance whereby the emphasis is on the prevention of crime.

Residents of the area will have access to the latest information on home protection awareness programs. Operation Identification will

Fire Safety Tips From Senior Fire Aide John Davis

"PLEASE LEARN NOT TO BURN"

House cleaning? Why not make this year's spring cleaning count for safety, too? Here's how: As you clean each room, check it for fire hazards. Throw out combustible rubbish. Inspect electric appliances for damage or wear. Be sure you have plenty of good-sized ashtrays. Have your furnace and other heating units inspected. They need cleaning as well as the rest of your house. Your clean-up will do double duty; it will put your house in apple-pie order, and it will help keep it that way!
