

I CAESAR . . .

send forth special greetings to the people of our city who once again showed all that Las Vegas is the Entertainment capital of the world.

The glory of the heavyweight battle was but a small part of the grand picture of the Las Vegas that we showed to the world.

Together we proved that our community is the front-runner when it comes to friendship and service.

At a time when pulling together means so much to all of us, we pulled together like never before. We provided the more than 31,000 fans and 600 media representatives with an insight to what Las Vegas is really about.

So share in the glory of knowing that together we made history. Together we helped cement our place at the top.

Take heart in knowing that our good work does not go unnoticed.

Without the efforts of the community, special events like the Holmes-Cooney fight would never become a reality.

And let it be known that work is already underway to bring another grand event to our city. September 23 through 26, the eye of the world will once again be focused on Las Vegas for the Second Annual Caesars Palace Grand Prix.

I plan to make it even more spectacular than ever before with a Championship Formula One Race, the Coors Can-Am and motorcycle races included in this year's lineup.

So take pride Las Vegas . . . in yourself, in your community, and in your resort industry.
