Homemaker-Home Health Aides Needed

There is an urgent need for homemakers-home health aides in Clark County, it was announced today by Myla Florence, director of the Clark County Social Service Homemaker-Home Health Aide Program.

The program has recently received funds from the Clark County Community Development Block Grant to conduct a training program for part-time aides who will serve on an on-call basis to provide continued services to clients whose regularly scheduled aide is unavailable. "This will ensure that services to needy individuals will not be disrupted," explained Ms. Florence, "and at the same time maintain high standards through a pool of qualified personnel that can provide homemaker services with essential client safeguards."

"We are recruiting seven individuals who want an opportunity to provide a public service and at the same time prefer intermittent employment with flexible scheduling so they may meet other personal needs. These people must, however, be willing to participate in a one hundred forty-hour comprehensive training program which will meet up to eight hours a day the first month for which they will be paid $5.55 per hour. It is planned that the training program will begin by the end of August."

"The woman who has raised her own family or helped her aged parents or relatives in time of illness or stress often makes the best homemaker-home health aide. A friendly, understanding personality, good judgement and good health are more important for this work than years of formal schooling," Ms. Florence said.

A homemaker-home health aide's duties include caring for handicapped, ill or elderly persons unable to meet their own household needs. This includes planning and preparing nutritious meals, marketing, light housekeeping and working within a plan of care developed by professional social workers.

"My Vote Would Not Have Made A Difference Anyway"

Sen. Howard Cannon
June 24, 1982
Review Journal

Howard Cannon didn't bother to vote on the crucial 1983 Federal Budget.

The only U.S. Senator in America who failed to do so.

It was a budget that —

- Puts a 4 percent cap on the cost of living adjustment for the 17,000 Nevada military and civilian retirees
- Cuts Veterans programs $77 million
- Cuts Medicare $3 billion
- And left a deficit of at least $104 billion

When asked why, Senator Cannon said "my vote would not have made a difference anyway . . ."

It doesn't make sense, Senator. On one hand you tell us that your seniority makes all the difference when it comes to key votes. On the other hand you fail to show up when it means the most to all Americans.

*Seniority? Or Caring?
That's The Issue.*
