McCutcheon Captures Second Place In Caesars Palace Gymnastics

Southern Connecticut State University graduate Mario McCutcheon capped a stellar day with a perfect score of 10.0 on the horizontal bar on his way to capturing second place in the fifth Caesars Palace Gymnastics Invitational last Saturday. He was narrowly defeated by Mitch Gaylord, a senior student at UCLA, one of the four gymnasts receiving a perfect score on the horizontal bar.

McCutcheon was shut out in the medals' race in all but two categories: vaulting (second, 9.85), and horizontal bar (tied for first). Still, the 1983 member of the USA world championship team was consistent, scoring 9.8 in the floor exercise, the still rings, and parallel bars.

"Mitch was really tough this afternoon," said McCutcheon. "You have to be consistent with the calibre of athletes around these days.

If you hit your routines well and have a certain degree of difficulty in your moves, you'll be up there."
