"Seniors" Play Santa To W.L.V. Businesses

By H. P. Fitzgerald

The Westside Community Development Commission's Senior Citizens Minor Home Repair Services Program Crew, supported by 17 referrals from the Lower Court Counseling Program, recently spruced up North "D" Street and West Jackson Avenue for the area merchants, for their Second Annual Christmas Parade, which was held on Saturday, Dec. 17.

The trainees applied fresh paint to more than 13,500 square feet of store front surface at no cost to store owners.

The paint was provided by the City of Las Vegas Department of Funds Co-ordination's Block Grant Program, and the commission trainees received training in house painting techniques. The trainees also cleaned tons of trash and rubbish from vacant properties along the parade route, which included North "D" Street, North "G" Street and West Jackson Avenue.

This project was a joint venture between the Westside Community Development Commission, the City's Development Program Division and the Nevada Economic Development Company, to make our West Las Vegas Business Community a more attractive and viable part of 'The Best City Of Them All.'

STAMPS BY MAIL

Las Vegas Postmaster Joseph Ryan announced today that the no fee Stamps By Mail Program recently started in Las Vegas has been a resounding success.

Literally thousands of Southern Nevada postal customers have taken advantage of the elimination of the 40 cent Stamp By Mail service charge and have ordered their postal products by mail.

There has definitely been a reduction seen in the number of customers standing in our lobbies waiting only to purchase stamps, the Postmaster said.
