

42-YEAR OLD SURVIVORS PLAZA TAKES ON NEW LOOK—NEW DIMENSIONS

The new look on North "D" Street is the new facade of the Survivor's Plaza — thanks to the great foresight and vision of its current owner William Sanders, son of its founder Allen Sanders. The shopping center was started by Allen Sanders during 1942. After the death of his father, William Sanders moved to Las Vegas from Los Angeles and took over the operation about one year ago. One of his immediate projects was to venture on a remodeling project. Present tenants include the Religious Emporium, Survivor's Fish, Wesley's Barber Shop and D.L.C. Telephone Services — all located in the 1300 block of North "D" Street.

Community Progress:

Rev. Sam Roberson

"I recognized that people were not able to get religious materials locally so the idea hit me to start a religious outlet—thus was born the Religious Emporium during 1974," said Rev. Sam Roberson. He is the pastor of the Community Baptist Church in Henderson, Nev. the new church building is now under construction. They hope to move into the building sometime in July with a dedication at a later date. He is still associated with the Gospel Tornadoes and currently manages the group. Rev. Roberson is heavily involved in a host of community projects.

Jesse Wesley II

Wesley's Barber Shop was operated by Rev. Jesse Wesley, pastor of the New Bethel Baptist Church. It started during 1952. Rev. Wesley stopped work there during 1977. Now the operation is managed by Rev. Wesley's children: Jesse Wesley II and daughter Jo Anna Wesley. Dianna Harris is also on the staff.
