JOURNALISTS TAKE FIRSTHAND LOOK AT MIDWEST BAHAMAS

The Paradise Island promotion Board, representing Nassau, Cable Beach and Paradise Island; and United Airlines, with the support of the Bahamas Ministry of Tourism, arranged a trip for a group of Midwest journalists to take a firsthand look at what the Bahamas has to offer the vacationer.

The eight writers who represented the Black-oriented newspapers and magazines, were: Carolyn Shadd, Black Family magazine; Michael Cheers, Ebony/Jet magazines; Robert Sengstacke, Chicago Defender; Charles Armstrong, Chicago Metro News; Marjorie Parham, Cincinnati Herald; Mary Lynn, Cleveland Call & Post; Lois Leuellyn, Kansas City Call and Valerie Nicholson, Kansas City Globe. LeRoy Jeffries, consultant to United Airlines, served as host to the writers; and Bob Heim, vice president and account executive for M. Silver & Associates, (hotel public relations specialists), made the arrangements for the group's activities, hotel accommodations and island transportation throughout the four-day stay.

The capitol of Nassau is located on New Providence Island, where Cable Beach has joined Paradise Island as a center of resort activity. The luxurious Royal Bahamian Hotel, formerly named the Balmoral Beach, caters to upscale visitors. The government-owned Cable Beach Hotel, Casino and Convention Center, has been opened more than a year and served as host to the Midwest Writers. Some other fine hotels located on Cable Beach are the Ambassador Beach and the Nassau Beach, among others. There are also many moderately priced hotels and guest houses.

The Ocean Club on Paradise Island, is the ultimate, elegant experience, offering even the most selective, superb service, beautifully decorated guest rooms and suites and tranquil gardens for strolling. The cuisine is fabulous and dining is always a memorable occasion set in magnificent surroundings.
