WESTWARD HO SUCCESS STORY . . . Whistling while you work can give you a lift, but singing on the job may change your life. Just ask Bryan Clark (right). His vocal talent was discovered by Westward Ho management when he was overheard singing while working as a busboy in the Ca Fae restaurant. Clark now entertains Westward Ho audiences in the Casino Lounges with his high-octane performances that include song, dance and impersonations. Shown with Clark is Mark Wolfe, a superb keyboardist who accompanies Clark. They appear Sunday through Wednesday. Also appearing in the lounge are Wildflower and Loretta St. John. As always, entertainment in the lounge is without charge.

Crosby, Stills and Nash Concert Asks for Food Donations on Friday

Crosby, Stills and Nash are concentrating their efforts on the hungry in America as they begin an eight-week, 32-city tour.

CS&N will perform Friday at the Thomas and Mack Center and are asking fans to bring non-perishable food to the concert. The food will be distributed to the Community Food Bank. For information call Moya dePonceau, 648-7618.

The group is concentrating its efforts on hungry persons in America, and food banks across the country will benefit from the concerts through the food donated by fans.

CS&N mirrors the concern of a segment of the nation that wants to do something, but often is defeated before anything gets started, a spokesman for the Community Food Bank of Las Vegas said. Food banking — food sharing — is not new, but it is vital, he added.

"Because of performers such as CS&N and others, the awareness of the problem of hunger is being brought into the open, and steps are being taken to ensure that no one in this nation is without the basic human needs of food," the spokesman said.
