CIVIL RIGHTS HALL OF FAME HONOR ROLL

Every year about this time, during the months of January and February, one begins to hear shrill voices of gloom and doom relative to the historical impact and results of the Civil Rights movement which is to some people, in reality, a figment of one's imagination.

There are those who really believe that there has not been any real Civil Rights progress made for Black Americans.

If those Black Hall of Famers could come back from the grave, they would categorically refute that their labors were in vain.

Many of the critics of the Civil Rights movement were those who were too spineless and scared to join in the fight for freedom while the movement passed them by.

A partial list of organizations in the movement are listed here: SCLC, NAACP, CORE, SNICK, National Urban League, A. Phillip Randolph Institute, Black Panthers, Black Muslims and the U.A.W.

Many of these organizations participated in The Freedom Rides in the South, the March to Selma, Alabama and the March on Washington, D.C., where more than 250,000 people assembled at the foot of the Lincoln Memorial.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS MOVEMENT MADE IT POSSIBLE FOR ITS CRITICS TO SPEAK OUT TODAY

Only a few years ago, if you made a speech against the status quo or the power structure, robed Klansmen would burn a cross on your lawn, or run you out of town, or lynch you, because there was no law against doing so.

As a result of the Civil Rights movement, you now have laws that protect your rights as a citizen and allow you to make a speech anywhere you want to on almost any subject.

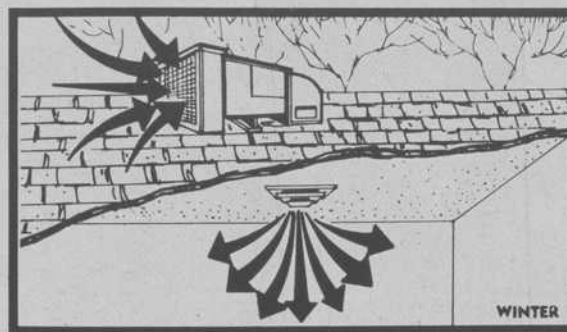

First we were under the bondage of slavery for hundreds of years and then for more than a hundred years under the plantation or share cropper systems; but now we stand in the last part
