Employers Benefit From Youth Training Programs

Two Las Vegas employers have found that working with Youth Training Programs can bring real benefits. Hurley Electronics and the City of North Las Vegas Recreation Department have used youth provided by the Southern Nevada Employment and Training Program to increase their staff and provide new services. How did this come about?

The Office Manager of Hurley Electronics, Gail Snellgrove, had a problem. Her office staff could not keep up with all their paperwork and bookkeeping backlog. Accounts were going uncollected and customers were unsatisfied. But the company couldn't afford to hire a new employee to take up the slack. The Snellgrove saw an article in the Greater Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce Newsletter about Youth Try-Out Programs offered by Southern Nevada Employment and Training Program. This program helps businesses hire youth by providing financial incentives. After calling Southern Nevada Employment and Training Program a youth trainee was placed in the company.
