

CAL-PAC Tenth Annual Convention Set For August 24-28

(Los Angeles, CA) — "The Tenth Annual CAL-PAC Convention will showcase the growth and stature of CAL-PAC when it convenes in Las Vegas, August 24 through 28 at Caesars Palace," according to Joe Solomon, Convention Chair.

Solomon added, "CAL-PAC members along with food, beverage and spirits industry officials are expected to meet together in informative workshops to discuss effective business strategies for the small businessman, opportunities in the spirits industry and government regulations that affect business enterprise." In conjunction with the seminars CAL-PAC members will have the opportunity through the many diverse social activities to interact with industry representatives and network with each other on an informal basis.

Solomon stressed, "Seminar highlights will include: The Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and the California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control conducting a seminar on new and detailed government regulations; Doyle, Williams and Company, a distinguished CPA firm will moderate a workshop on financial and business planning and accounting procedures." A featured seminar speaker will be Fred Snowden, vice president of Urban Affairs and Development for Baskin-Robbins, who will address the convention on economic strategies.

Ron McPherson, president of CAL-PAC, in outlining some of the corporate participation confirmed for this year's convention stated, "Corporate sponsorship has always been the cornerstone of successful CAL-PAC conventions, and this year proves no exception with companies truly making a commitment to helping promote the goals and programs of CAL-PAC."
