STUDENTS CELEBRATE THANKSGIVING WITH UNIQUE LEARNING EVENTS

Students in two 3rd-grade classrooms at Rose Warren Elementary School completed an in-depth study of the Pilgrims and Indians with two weeks of events planned Nov. 14-23.

Third grade teachers coordinating the events were Diane Rickett and Linda Cozine.

- Events scheduled include:
- Nov. 14—Preparing pumpkin for pies to be baked on Monday
 - Nov. 15—Demonstrating and tasting "fry bread" from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.
 - Nov. 17—Preparing and drying fruits at 10 a.m.
 - Nov. 18—Making and canning applesauce from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Nov. 18—An overnight campout which included preparing meats for a Thanksgiving feast (smoked turkey, venison, rabbit and fish), building a fire with flint, constructing a teepee, and demonstrations of Indian dancing and animal trapping. Activities began at 5 p.m. with most events taking place at 6 p.m.

Nov. 21—Baking pumpkin pies and preparing cranberry sauce from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Nov. 22—Making butter and baking bread all day.

Nov. 23—Events culminated with a Thanksgiving feast between the Pilgrims and Indians (in full costume) at noon Wednesday.

Second Success Program Workshop Offered

It's Time You Managed Time! is the second workshop in the new Success Program, a management training series for small and midsized business owners and managers that was recently implemented by the Center for Business and Industry Training, Clark County Community College.

The session is scheduled for Tuesday, November 29, 6:30 pm to 9:30 pm, at Nevada National Bank, 2300 W. Sahara, Las Vegas. Because many business owners and managers can't find enough time to manage time, this workshop will focus on the practical aspects of time management.

The Success Program was initiated to provide affordable management skills training in Southern Nevada. Many local businesses contributed to the development

Sunset High School News

by Sheryl Crawford

Sunset High School students have elected their student body government officers for the 1988-89 school year. The elections were held in late September.

Anna Vaughn, a senior, was elected student body president. Kenny Bryner, Jamey Buehler, Angel Libes, and Scott Seagrove were elected as vice-presidents. As a result of the reorganization of the student government, each vice-president will have a different area to oversee. Ms. Pat Thomas, leadership teacher at Sunset, will advise the student government.

Every month Sunset High School teachers recognize a male and female student for the student of the month program. Students are nominated on the basis of class participation, regular attendance, punctuality, effort in class and homework, and having a good attitude towards their work and school.

The Sunset students of the month for September were Kevin Kozloff and Maria Gamboa. Kevin is a senior and plans to graduate at the end of the first semester. After graduation he plans to travel and work in Australia. Maria plans to complete her graduation requirements, attend college, and then have a career in business.

Gordon Mattimoe, a senior at Sunset High School, is in the Army Reserves. He plans on taking advantage of one of the Reserves' many options. The Army Reserves offer R.O.T.C., the G.I. Bill, or a scholarship to a nursing school.

Rancho High School Senior Organizes Regional Boys and Girls Club Conference

For several months now, Angela Amos has busied herself with some concerns outside of the schoolwork and social activities common to any teen-ager.

Angela has, for instance, been spending much of her time organizing the fourth annual Great Western Keystone Roundup Conference, a seven-state regional youth conference of Boys Clubs and Boys and Girls Clubs.

Angela, a senior at Rancho High School, is chief youth organizer of the conference, which is expected to bring more than 300 Keystone Club members to Anaheim, Calif. on Friday and Saturday.

Each Boys Club and Boys and Girls Club has a Keystone Club for youths ages 14 through 18. The clubs promote leadership, community service, service to the club and brotherhood and sisterhood.

Angela was named chairwoman of the club's Pacific regional conference because of her continued commitment to the Las Vegas community and to Boys and Girls Clubs of Las Vegas, according to Melani Miller, special projects coordinator.

In addition to heading up the regional conference, Angela has been appointed to the National Keystone Conference Steering Committee, which is planning the national Keystone conference scheduled for March in Pittsburgh.

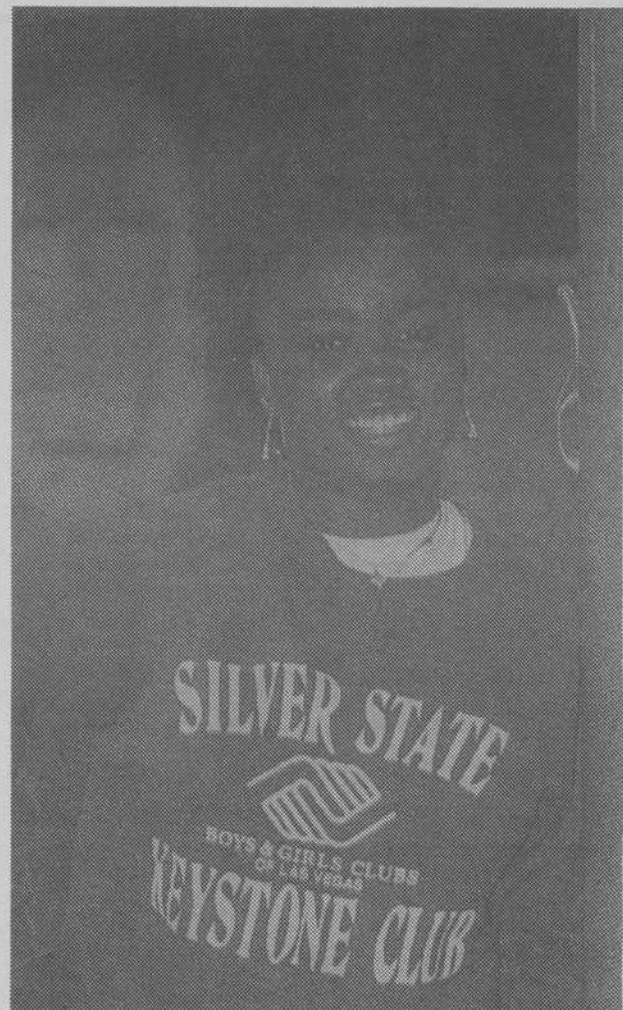

commitment to the Reserves. He will go to Fort Leonard Wood for his basic training. After he completes basic training, Gordon will study to be a medical specialist. He chose that field because he hopes to someday be a paramedic.

Among the youth-related topics that will be discussed at the regional and national conferences are AIDS, teenage pregnancy and drug and alcohol abuse.

Angela said she has been in the Boys and Girls Clubs for about four years and in the Keystone Club for about three years. She also works as a part-time staff member at the local club's North Las Vegas unit.

Angela said that, in addition to helping her develop leadership skills, the club is "a lot of fun. It's kept me out of a lot of trouble."

December Housekeeping Management Classes Scheduled

Two classes in a housekeeping management series will be offered in December by the Center for Business and Industry Training, Clark County Community College, in conjunction with the Las Vegas Chapter of the National Executive Housekeepers Association. All sessions will be held at University Medical Center, 1800 W. Charleston, Las Vegas, Nevada.

Stress, effective communication, and conflict management are some of the topics included in Human Behavior, scheduled Dec. 2-3, Friday, 5:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m., and Saturday, 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

A course in Written Communications will cover business letters, reports, correspondence, and resumes. It will be held Dec. 6, 8, 14, and 15, 6:00-10:00 p.m.

The classes in housekeeping management lead to certification as an executive housekeeper (C.E.H.) by the National Executive Housekeepers Association. The Certified Executive Housekeepers program is part of a nationwide effort to improve the quality of commercial, institutional, and industrial housekeeping.

For more information about the December classes or a brochure on the program, call the Center for Business and Industry Training in Las Vegas, 643-6944.
