WORDS OF LIFE

Prayer Poem

The theme of the second coming of Christ is almost invariably intertwined with the "day of the Lord" theme. Hence Laurentius Laurenti's hymn, "Rejoice, Rejoice Believers!" which appeared in 1700, contains this two-fold emphasis.

The day is only "at hand" in Christian thought but has also arrived. The day is here; the day is coming. For all who would conjoin their lives of God's life, we have already won...and still may keep on winning. Such is the spirit woven into the words of the hymn or prayer poem below.

*Rejoice, rejoice, believers!
And let your lights appear;
The evening is advancing,
And darker night is near.*

*The Bridegroom is arising,
And soon he will draw night;
Up, watch in expectation.
At midnight comes the cry.*

*See your lamps are burning;
Replenish them with oil;
Look now for your salvation,
The end of sin and toil.
The watchers on the mountain
Proclaim the Bridegroom near;
Go meet him as he cometh,
With Alleluias clear.*

Opportunity for our good, betterment, fulfillment and renewal is at hand. Indeed, it has always come. But boundless opportunity awaits. "The day is at hand."

Stronger Church-College Link Urged At Higher Education Day

By Larry Still
NNPA News Service

Re-establishment of the strong linkage between black churches and higher education institutions was urged by top black college officials at an annual religious service and college symposium at the Metropolitan African Methodist Episcopal Church four blocks from the White House in the Capitol.

Dr. Prezen Robinson, president of St. Augustine's College in Raleigh, NC, and

Works" and how the Father set her free at her darkest hour. She is a dynamic heart-warming woman of God who tells the truth like it was ment to be told. To God be the glory. Join us in this celebration and give Him honor!!!

Come, see what the Father is doing!!!

Dr. George K. Goodwin, executive director of the White House Initiative on Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs), were major guest speakers at the church's observance of Higher Education Day during regular Sunday services and a reception-symposium later.

Emphasizing the need for greater education and training for skilled employment for black youth by the year 2000, Dr. Robinson pointed out that one third of all American workers and 50 percent of all students will be minority members. He called upon black churches to help prepare students for higher education in the future as they have in the past before the desegregation decisions.

Approximately 100 educators attended last Sunday's symposium to consider the recommendations of Robinson and Goodwin for improvements in HBCUs.
