Miami - The Eastern Conference All-Stars had so many stars Sunday that Magic Johnson of the West was selected the Most Valuable Player.

Magic Johnson

The highest scorers on the East had 17 points, but nine players had at least eight in the 130-113 victory over the West, which got strong performances from Johnson and Tom Chambers but shot only 43.8 percent from the field.

It was the lowest total for a losing team in an NBA All-Star game since the West lost 123-109 in 1976.

Johnson, with 22 points and a record four 3-pointers, became only the third MVP from a losing team, joining Julius Erving in 1977 and Bob Pettit in 1958.

Michael Jordan and Charles Barkley scored 17 points each for the East. Isiah Thomas had 15 points and nine assists, Robert Parish 14 points, and Patrick Ewing 12 points and 10 rebounds.

Kenny Smith

SACRAMENTO, Calif. - Atlanta bolstered its backcourt and Sacramento strengthened its frontline Tuesday in a four-player deal that sent guard Kenny Smith to the Hawks and forward Antoine Carr to the Kings.

The Kings also obtained reserve guard Sedric Toney and a second-round 1991 draft-pick, while the Hawks got rookie forward Mike Williams.

The Hawks, fourth in the Central Division, needed help in the backcourt because of injuries to John Battle and Doc Rivers. Smith, a first-round pick in 1987 from North Carolina, and this year's slam dunk runner-up, was averaging 15 points and a team-leading 6.6 assists for Sacramento.

Four Enshrined in Basketball Hall of Fame

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. - Elvin Hayes, Dave Bing and Earl "The Pearl" Monroe, who translated their college success into NBA stardom, were elected to the Basketball Hall of Fame last Thursday.

Also chosen was the late Neil Johnston, the Philadelphia Warriors' hook-shot artist who led the NBA in scoring for three straight seasons in the early 1950s. All will be inducted on May 15.

Hayes, who starred at the University of Houston in the late '60s and ended his 16-year NBA career as the league's third-leading all-time scorer, said making the Hall was a dream come true.

Elvin Hayes

"It's just unreal," he said from his car dealership in Cleveland, Texas.

Hayes, who played for the Rockets in San Diego and Houston and the Bullets in Baltimore and Washington, said he was delighted to go into the Hall with two of his contemporaries.

Earl Monroe

Monroe, who was passed over by Hall voters three times, said he has become so discouraged that "I just stopped thinking about it."

Bing, a star at Syracuse before entering the NBA, expressed gratitude to his teammates and coaches.

He averaged 21 points and nearly 12.5 rebounds a game for his career and was named to 12 All-Star teams. He was the league's top rebounder in 1970 and 1974.

While Hayes was elected in his first year of eligibility, it took two years for Bing and four for Monroe, the sixth player on the New York Knicks' 1973 championship team to be enshrined.

than 30 of his professional fights, said, "Don King is cancer. He should have been with his fighter after the fight."

Rooney said Tyson entered the ring as if he didn't want to be there.

"My sources tell me he took five days off after (sparring partner Greg) Page knocked him on his backside," Rooney, who pupil of Rooney, was stunned as everybody else at the outcome of the fight.

"He looked like a different person," Sanders said. "He looked like he didn't show up to fight. There was a lack of concentration. His trainers should have helped him out. There was hardly any conversation in the corner. I was totally surprised."

101 Points

INGLEWOOD, Calif. - Points: 101. Field goals: 37. Free throws: 27. Minutes: 16.

Not just another game for Lisa Leslie. Not even a full game. Just half a game.

"I'd shoot jumpers inside the paint, off the drive, fake one away and go the other way, whatever," the 6-foot-5 Leslie said. "I was jumping in my sleep last night."

It was a performance that belied believability.

Leslie's coach couldn't believe it. Even Leslie thought she was seeing things. And her Morningside High School team's opponent, South Torrance High School, had seen enough.

South Torrance called it quits at halftime Wednesday night, walking off the court with the score 102-24.

Leslie, who scored all but one point for the Monarchs, was four points short of the national high school record of 105 by former Southern Cal All-American Cheryl Miller.

After the first eight-minute quarter, Leslie looked at the score-board and realized she already had 49 points, far ahead of the 25-point pace she had set for herself.
