

Diana Ross Headlines Caesars Palace May 2-14

Diana Ross returns to headline the Caesars Palace Circus Maximus Showroom May 2 - 14 (dark 5/8).

An Academy Award nominee for her stunning role in the feature film "Lady Sings the Blues," Ross recently announced an agreement with entertainment mogul Ted Turner to make a telefilm about the life of singer Josephine Baker.

This June, the Friar's Club will honor her as Entertainer of the Year in an event scheduled at the Waldorf Astoria hotel in New York.

Ross has recorded 55 albums since signing her first performing agreement with Motown Records in 1961. Early hits, as lead singer for the Supremes, included "Stop! In the Name of Love," "Baby Love," and "Reach Out and Touch (Somebody's Hand)." After launching her solo career, Ross maintained her stellar popularity, releasing top-selling songs such as "Ain't No Mountain High Enough," "Muscles," "Endless Love," and 1989's "Workin' Overtime."

Ross is currently a governor and equity partner of Motown.

Sometimes focused on film, often focused on family, always focused on fashion, Ross has never wavered in her commitment to the music she believes in and the audiences who want to hear her sing it.

"I'd like to think one of my greatest accomplishments musically is to take the music of a specific community, put my own spin in it and take it out to the world," Ross says.

"There is no place as exciting for me to be as up on a stage performing for an audience," she says. "It's exhilarating not just because of the thrill of live performance, but because it really represents my total effort. I've worked on every aspect of the show...from songs to lighting...So a concert really lets me share all parts of myself with the audience. And it's the most amazing sensation in the world to feel the waves of energy from an audience move through you...It lets me know that what I'm performing is truly affecting them. And that is the greatest return I could ask for."

The Treniers Bring Their Unique Style to the Aladdin

The Treniers says it all! Winners of the Best Lounge Act of the Year in Las Vegas several times over, they will bring their unique style to the Sinbad Lounge of the Aladdin Hotel & Casino as of April 24th.

They are mesmerizing to watch - every move is a production number and choreographed to the most minute detail; and yet, they do everything with such ease!

The Treniers have performed all over the world receiving rave reviews wherever they go. They have received numerous awards - The Critics Award, Most Outstanding Variety Group, Stella Awards, and the Achievement Award given by the I.T.A.A. - an award that has been given only three times in the history of this organization and never before to a group. The significance of this award is that they won over the great Stevie Wonder - a fete in itself.

through May 20. Appearing opposite The Treniers will be Tammy Pemberton. Diane Ellis will appear as part of the weekend lineup April 30-May 27.

Music is their life and the audiences are their life blood!

The Treniers began their engagement the evening of April 24 and will appear

WHO'S WHO IN LAS VEGAS

Phillip Thompson

Doolittle Community Center Coordinator

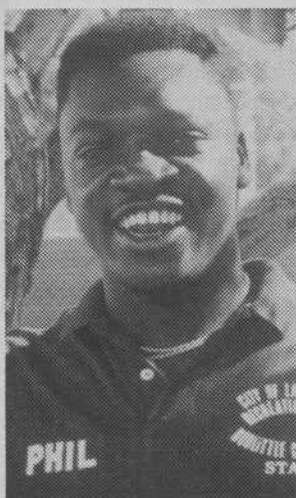

Phillip Thompson has been part of the Doolittle Community Center for a long time.

His competitive nature had taken him to the Center from the time he attended Cashman Jr. High, till he graduated from Bonanza High School in 1981.

After attending Grambling State University, the social-work major returned to the Center where he is now the acting coordinator.

He began his tenure at Doolittle by doing odd jobs which later led to working basketball leagues and children's programs.

After becoming a full-time employee, he began coaching youth basketball, flag football, and contributed to many other programs.

Thanks to his hard work and dedication, the new Doolittle Community Center is a place we can all be proud of.
