UNITED GOSPEL INDUSTRY COUNCIL (UGIC) ELECTS EXECUTIVE BOARD, SETS MISSION

NASHVILLE - Members of the United Gospel Industry Council (UGIC) convened here recently for a two-day session to officially organize the structure of its Board of Directors and to define the agenda for the new organization.

The 18-member panel dealt with a number of issues of concern to the gospel music industry, including the need for and the purpose of UGIC.

Frank Wilson of Black American Response to the African Crisis (BARAC) was elected chairman. Other officers include Ed. Smith, Gospel Music Workshop of America (GMWA), first vice president; Jun Mhoon, I AM Records, second vice president; Vicki Mack Lataillade, Sparrow Communications Group, third vice president; Carol Bell, GMWA, secretary; and Al Hobbs, WTCL/WTUX, Indianapolis, treasurer. Elected to the Board of Directors were James Bullard, Word Records; Lisa Collins, Billboard Magazine columnist and producer of Inside Gospel; Teresa Hairston, Benson Music Group; Gail Hamilton, Choice Management; Bill Hearn, Sparrow Communications Group; Patrick Henderson, artist/producer; Roger Holmes, Sierra Management; Bobby Jones, artist/television; Denise Marcia, Gospel Music Association (GMA) and GMWA; Reginald Rutherford, Rutherford Connection; John Styl, CCM Publications and GMA; and John Sussewell, Beracah Records.

One of the Council's first actions was to ratify the organization's mission statement: "To champion the existence of the gospel music industry in America; to establish unity; to foster its artistic and economic growth; to serve as a legitimate and credible voice of the gospel music industry in all its varied facets; and to effectively communicate with the Christian and secular music industry."

The idea to form a representative body for the gospel industry originated from a series of meetings held last year. Each session identified the need for growth, expansion and equity in the area of "black" gospel music, its artists and industry representatives. Various informal discussions were held in March, at the Gospel Music Workshop of America, at the Black Radio Exclusive Convention in
