

FOR THE LADIES

Camp Foxtail Offers Many New Programs For Girls

Camp Foxtail, located in the cool mountains of Lee Canyon in the Mt. Charleston area offers a resident camp program for girls ages 7-17. Operated by Frontier Girl Scout Council, the camp site and program are accredited by the American Camping Association.

The camp features platform tents, cabins, a dining hall for meals and all-camp activities, and modern facilities with warm water for showers. Four-day sessions still available include: "Bugs and Butterflies," "Games Galore," and "Fun and Fitness." Seven and ten day sessions include; babysitting, cheerleading, theatre, survival skills, hiking, exploring nature, fashion, fitness and make-up.

Leadership sessions for teenage girls provide team-building, leadership techniques, camping skills and working with younger campers. Camp sessions begin the end of June and continue through August.

The goal of Frontier Girl Scout Council is for each camper to grow in appreciation and knowledge of herself, the Girl Scout Program, the natural environment, and other people. For a free brochure or more information call Frontier Girl Scout Council at 385-3677. Girl Scout membership is not required to attend a Camp Foxtail program, which is a not-for profit venture, available to all girls.

An Open House will be held on Saturday, June 20 from 1:00-4:00 p.m. Guided tours will be available for parents and potential campers.

NATL. PROGRAM UNDERWAY TO HONOR BLACK WOMEN COMMUNITY LEADERS

CHICAGO (May 30, 1992) — The National Council of Negro Women (NCNW) has begun the second phase of its national program to honor dynamic Black women community leaders. Aunt Jemima brands of The Quaker Oats Company is the corporate sponsor.

The year-long program titled "Tribute To Black Women Community Leaders" was kicked-off in October, 1991 at a Washington, D.C. breakfast and is currently being executed in six cities that have local NCNW Sections: Atlanta, GA; Charleston, SC; Chicago, IL; Cleveland, OH; Houston, TX; and New Orleans, LA. From the six local winners, one national winner will be honored as "Black Woman Community Leader of the Year" during an awards breakfast in Chicago on June 18. She will receive a $3,000 cash prize.

"All too often the hard work of local women who are making significant improvements in their communities goes unacknowledged," said Dr. Dorothy I. Height, president and CEO of the national organization. "Joining with The Quaker Oats Company to present this program gives NCNW the opportunity to recognize these dedicated women and introduce them to a wider audience."

In the first phase, the local affiliates sponsored a contest that allowed residents in the six participating cities to nominate women who are making a difference in their communities. The winners were selected by a panel of judges on the basis of community service and leadership, family ideals and dedication, church activism, career development and an essay describing the nominee's service and accomplishments.

"The enthusiasm and support from the local NCNW offices participating in the program have been tremendous," said Eric Stevenson, assistant brand manager for Aunt Jemima brands. "The distinguished history of NCNW and our admiration of Dr. Height's work in the African-American community are just a few of the many reasons Quaker Oats is pleased to partner with this organization to launch the program."

The second phase of the program is a NCNW-sponsored leadership fundraising breakfast in each city. Each local winner, along with four semi-finalists, will be recognized at the breakfast where the winner will receive a $1,000 cash prize and a plaque. An additional component to the program is the "Future Community Leader" award presented to one Black female college student who has exhibited unique leadership qualities and has served her community selflessly. Selected by the local NCNW office, she also will be presented during the breakfast fundraiser and awarded a $500 educational grant. For more information about the program, contact the local NCNW office in the participating cities.

Founded by legendary educator and human rights activist Mary McLeod Bethune, the National Council of Negro Women is a 58-year old social service organization. Under the direction of Dr. Dorothy I. Height since 1958, the organization is recognized as the principal advocacy group for African-American women and their families with an outreach to more than four million women.

SAN DIEGO'S SECOND ANNUAL AFRICAN AMERICAN WOMEN'S CONFERENCE EXPANDS PROGRAM AND ACTIVITIES

San Diego's Second Annual African American Women's Conference presented by HomeFed Bank, will be held Thursday, July 9 - Sunday, July 12, 1992, at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in La Jolla. Last year's 2-day conference attracted over 2,000 participants from throughout the country. All workshops and activities were filled to capacity. As a result, this year's conference and programs have been expanded. Attendance is expected to exceed 3,000.

The Annual African American Women's Conference was founded in 1990 by San Diego local, Maria Carothers, owner and president of PROMOTrends, a San Diego-based marketing and promotions firm.

The African American Women's Conference will host nationally renowned spokeswomen on African American women's issues, including Sonia Sanchez, known for her revolutionary Black poetry Terrie Williams, leading African American entrepreneur and president of the Terrie Williams agency; and former victim of spousal abuse, Iyanla Vanzant, now one of the nation's most phenomenal motivational speakers on survival, re-birth and empowerment.

If Your Man Is Dabbling In Drugs... He Could Be Dabbling With Your Life.

This is a message from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control.

Shooting up or skin popping, if your man is sharing needles he could get the AIDS virus and bring it home to you. So if he's running with the drug crowd, even if it's only on the weekends, you need to talk to him. Try to get him into counselling. Insist that he wear a condom every time you have sex. And if he's not listening to you—do something to save your life. Leave.
