state and federal civilian control over the police departments. The results of this case concerning the officers' brutal beating of Rodney King is sufficient proof that oversight and review of the actions of police is inadequate.

Civilian control of police would include the establishment of civilian control boards that would have full investigative powers over the police, including subpoena powers and as such would serve as a deterrent to police crimes.

Now is the time to bring even more people to the May 16 Save Our Cities, Save Our Children march and rally in Washington, D.C. It provides an opportunity for people to bring their demands for justice for Rodney King directly to the White House and Congress.

Additionally, the demands made by organizers and endorsers of that action, starting with transferring funds from the Pentagon to people's needs, are in line with what people are saying to improve their standard of living and restore hope to the urban centers.

And let us not forget Bush. His response not only accelerates the importance of civilian control of the police and putting justice into the criminal justice system, but it raises the stakes of who we, the people, want elected in the 1992 presidential, Congressional, state legislative, gubernatorial and municipal election.

est child of eleven, born to Ernest and Martha Fuller. Her father was the assistant manager of Sta-Kleen Bakery. Both her parents are now deceased.

Baking croissants, pastries, and cooking are the activities which relax Mrs. Middleton. She assured us that she is quite proficient in it. Reading books and doing crossword puzzles are enjoyed by her also. Her major source of enjoyment comes from spending time with her family who she considers her best friends. Going to UNLV with Rosalind and Sonja has been the most gratifying and heart warming experience that she has encountered.

On Sunday, May 17, 1992, Mrs. Middleton graduated from UNLV with a G.P.A. of 3.45. She had the good fortune to have her brother Robert Fuller, Sr. in attendance, who watched the event beaming like a proud father. "Everyone at UNLV has been exceptionally nice to me, and I shall miss the warm ambience of the entire college community," said Mrs. Middleton.

Sonja Middleton first began to receive accommodation from Cannon Junior High School. She receive the Cannon Cardinal Award, the highest honor, all three years she was there. She graduated from Valley High School in 1990 with a G.P.A. of 4.515. Her class rank was 30 out of 848 students; thus, she was in the top ten percent of her class. Sonja was able to obtain such a high grade point average due to that fact that she was enrolled in the Distinguished Scholar and Advanced Placement Programs which carried a weighted grade in each class. She graduated with the Distinguished Scholar Diploma which required her to take 4 years of English, 3 years of mathematics, 2 years of a foreign language (French was her choice), 2 years of science, and 3 years of history. The summer of 1989, Sonja took Criminal Justice 101 (CRJ) and received an "A". One week after she graduated from Valley, she took English 104B and Anthropology 101, earning an "A" in both courses. Upon graduating, Sonja received the Nevada Gaming Foundation Scholarship (a year scholarship) and the four year Kenneth M. DeVos Scholarship from UNLV. In addition, she felt honored to receive one year scholarships from Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity and Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. Since starting UNLV officially with 9 credits under her belt, she has become a Sociology major and has made the Dean's Honor Roll every semester. This past semester, Sonja received two, one year academic scholarships for the 1992-1993 school year. They are the UNLV Academic Merit Scholarship and the American Association of University Women Scholarship (AAUW). She also received the Alumni Association Alumni Award for the most outstanding student in the department (G.P.A. based) in Sociology. She was recommended to tutor math and philosophy by her respective professors and is available to tutor sociology as well. Her current G.P.A. is 3.83.

Sonja's interest's are cooking, doing crosspatches and sum puzzles, going to amusement parks, and working with children.

Sonja's sister, Rosalind, is a member of Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. In addition, she is a graduate from UNLV. She received her Bachelor's of Arts degree in Economics and Social Science Studies in May 1991. Ms. Middleton earned a 4.00 G.P.A. in Economics and achieved an over all grade point average of 3.89. Currently, Rosalind is pursuing her master's degree in English at UNLV. Her main interests are cooking and spending time her wonderful family.
