UNR FALL PREVIEW 92

It used to be that a high school diploma could get you in the door almost anywhere. But in today's job market, only a college degree will open a lot of those doors and the University of Nevada, Reno will point you toward them in Las Vegas on Sept. 23.

"Fall Preview 1992" will take place at the Alexis Park Resort from 7:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. This is an informal chance to find out what the University of Nevada is all about. President Joe Crowley and student speakers will offer insights into what the university offers.

Representatives from academic departments, many of them deans or chairpersons, will be ready and willing to talk about their programs and offer materials to help anyone enroll at Nevada.

Refreshments will be served throughout the evening.

• OFFICIAL BANKING RULES •

1. Know Your Banker.

First of all, your banker has to stick around long enough for you to get to know him or her.

At American Bank of Commerce, we're proud to say that a very large number of our staff members and officers have been with us since 1979, when the bank was founded by a group of local business and community leaders.

That's why when you deal with one of our professional Nevada bankers you are face-to-face, on a first name personal basis, with a long time local decision maker.

So remember Rule No. 1 — Know Your Banker. All other rules are not really very important.
