GOOD VIBRATIONS "HARK! THE HERALD ANGELS SING"

By Rev. Harold E. Palmer

"There are 609,690 young African Americans in the criminal justice system (23 percent of all African American men aged 20 to 29). In other words, almost one of every four Black males is under the control of the criminal justice system—prison, jail, probation or parole. When the figure of 609,690 is compared with the 436,000 African American men of all ages enrolled in higher education, the depth of the crisis is patent"

Gayraud Wilmore, Black Men

In Prison: I.T.C. Press, 1990

Increasing crime across the country has caused an increase, an astonishing increase, of young Black males and females placed behind prison walls. The price tag for this continuous, vicious cycle of poverty, of racism, hopelessness, criminality and incarceration is over $2.5 billion. "That poverty and racism disproportionately affect this tragic situation is incontrovertible. Many studies have shown that the majority of young African American men who are incarcerated come from poor families and neighborhoods."

HAROLD E. PALMER, JR.

Yet, another issue that is directly related to the incarceration of our young people is the lives of the children that are left behind. So as we look at the increasing numbers of bright, visionary and talented people (See Good Vibrations, Pg 18)
