

THE FINE ART OF BLACK HISTORY

Civilizations come and go, often leaving their art as the only record of their accomplishments. It has been said that a nation that doesn't express itself in art is a contradiction in terms; like a person without a personality. A nation, like a person, must identify with its past as well as its future.

