DOOLITTLE YOUTH BASKETBALL LEAGUE UPDATE

By Bill Lee

The final week of Doolittle Community Center's Youth Basketball League's regular season started Monday night with the undefeated Hawks facing the Hoyas in a rematch of the Hawks' earlier season victory. The loss was the lone one on the season for the Hoyas.

As the youngsters hit the hardwood, the crowd buzzed with anticipation of the caliber of play about to be witnessed. They weren't disappointed as Coach Bruce Soares' Hawks, and Phil Harris' Hoyas came out smoking, a tit for tat battle from the word go.

The fans were treated to some excellent basketball as both clubs could only manage, at the most, a four-point advantage early on in the contest. The Hoyas had a supreme opportunity to win the game from the foul line, but choked on that chance by not connecting in the final four minutes of the fourth period.

The Hoyas found their chances even better in the waning seconds as they were sent to the charity stripe once again only to fall short of the ensuing victory. Three Hawks scored in double figures to lead Doolittle Community Center's Youth Basketball League continued Monday, when the Hoyas and Hawks tipped-off in a clash of the league's top two teams. Shane Christensen had 15 points while Manuel Terry and Steve Simister added 11 and 10 points respectively. LaRonta Johnson pumped in 17 points and Tony Jones dropped in 11 points for the Hoyas.

Both ball clubs exhibited some fine talent destined to grace the local high school courts in the near future. The kids were launching and connecting on three-pointers as often as in the Boys and Girls AAA Southern Conference, and they displayed true sportsmanship throughout the nail biting affair. The Hawks improved to 12-0, while the Hoyas dropped to 9-2.
