

POLITICAL POINTS

the Democratic Party's traditional constituencies, he came to the Rainbow conference and took a cheap shot at rap artist, Sister Souljah.

In contrast, Marge Schott's racist references to "her two million dollar niggers," "money grubber" Jews and "Japs" has not drawn any criticism for the White House. The President has yet to say anything in support of the six Black Secret Service agents who denied service at the Annapolis Denny's restaurant on their way to protect his life at the U.S. Naval Academy.

The President stood with and defended Webb Hubbell for another Justice Department position. Hubbell was a member of an all-white Arkansas Country Club.

In this time of great national pain and division, the White House must forge a moral high ground on which to conduct its administration. The covenant for jobs and justice is the right path for economic and human development for the nation. Next week, June 10 - 12, the National Rainbow Coalition and the Citizenship Education Fund will hold a national leadership summit, "Rebuild America II: Honoring the Covenant" at which we will discuss a plan to help advance this agenda of jobs and justice.

Finally, I think Congressman Kweisi Mfume made plenty of sense last Sunday on "Meet the Press" when he said, "The belief that people of African ancestry, really have nowhere to go but to the Democratic Party, but to the president no matter who the president is if he happens to be a Democrat, that's a gross miscalculation and it should be thrown out the window."

homosexual, at the time we were all lead to believe that Dr. King was a communist. After this vial and pathetic ploy failed to take effect, other efforts were made to discredit the man whose moral stance had just won him a national holiday. Conservatives suggested that he was of low character. They should be the ones to talk.

In the end, I think we all realize what the point is, I could go on citing examples of this type until my column runs out. The implications are quite clear, however. For every doctor, lawyer, scholar, athlete, entertainer, or business tycoon we can create in black America, there will be ruthless liars and propaganda experts from conservative America to tear them down. They never will, so gentlemen...WHO'S NEXT? peace...

GIRL SCOUT

desert tortoise and bighorn sheep and researching local history.

The participants will experience recreational activities such as rock climbing and rappelling at Red Rock Canyon, riding the paddlewheel across Lake Mead, touring Hoover Dam, and exploring the wonders of the Valley of Fire. Girls will also tour Great Basin National Park and explore the extensive caverns of Lehman Caves. There will also be time to enjoy Las Vegas, tour museums, shop at local malls and Caesar's Forum and eat lunch at the Hard Rock cafe.

A wider opportunity helps girls learn about themselves and the world around them. Each year girls from all over the United States apply to participate in national and international wider opportunities. These once-in-a-lifetime events give girls a chance to travel to a place different from their own home. They can meet new people and learn about different ways of life. Each participant meets new challenges while traveling both within the United States and in foreign countries. Friendships with girls all over the country are formed and later cherished. Frontier Girl Scout Council is one of the 26 councils across the country hosting a wider opportunity this summer.

Girl scouts from Frontier Girl Scout Council have been selected to participate in wider opportunities in other states. Interviews with these girls may be scheduled by calling Shellie at 385-3677.

Highlighted activities in the enclosed itinerary may be of special interest for photographs and feature stories.

Members of the press are welcome on any of our trips, tours or activities.
