ness zones. And for what it's worth, an open perception by white America, that Clinton is a "nigger" lover. Just a couple of months ago, citizens of the suburban Mid West agreed that the president, was biased toward blacks. This was a statement made on Night Line!

It is my opinion, (I being a Clinton supporter), that the president has begun to waffle on "black issues". Even the Congressional Black Caucus has eased it's support of the new Clinton health care task force; Richard Reynolds, M.D., executive vice president of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation; Edward O'Neil, M.P.A., Ph.D., executive director of the Pew Health Professionals Commission, an eight-year national initiative to direct reform in health profession education; and Richard Smith, M.D., Ph.D., the developer of the MEDEX Primary Health Care Series, a blueprint to establish and operate primary health care service training programs in developing countries.

This national workshop will bring together about 600 U.S. health care professionals, educators, policy makers, and program administrators to focus on developing and facilitating local solutions to national health care problems such as the distribution and retention of health care professionals. Nearly 250 topics will be offered in programmed track sessions during the conference. "HIV/AIDS Education Strategies for Physicians" and "Minority Health Issues" are among the many contemporary health topics that will be discussed.

An official conference program listing presentation times will be distributed prior to the conference.

president.

This brings me back to the point of this article. To become president of the United States, one has to be supported by a wide range of the American cross section. Clinton may have sided with black America in principle, but he knows as well we you and me, that the only way to keep his office is to keep the rich white population happy.

The major focus of any white American president is to take care of the white American people. Any other move or position, would be absolute suicide! Until blacks become a majority, or again the upper hand in economic expertise, this is the bitter reality.

All any liberal or any clean hearted white president can do is open the door for black America; the rest is up to us. "Hey, he hasn't done this, he hasn't done that!" No one is going to get it done for black America but, Black America. The time is right. This is the best it is EVER going to get! Racists next move to control blacks will be more police and stiffer punishment. Goldwater, Nixon, Reagan, and Bush ran on this crime and punishment platform. If you think I am crazy, look at the conservative chosen to be mayor of California!

Yes, for what it is worth, that's all we can expect out of the president. When you have a Bob Dole, who is so conservative he might support slavery, tearing down your every program, black or white, it's tough. When you have conservative suburbs saying stop welfare and food stamps, it's tough. Finally, for what it's worth, if you move to support freedom and justice at any cost, it becomes a risky business.

Too risky for just four years! peace
