MY POINT OF VIEW

JUDGEMENT NIGHT

By Jacqueline R. Walker
Stephen Hawkins Production
STARRING EMILIO ESTEVEZ,
CUBA GOODING JR., DENIS
LEARY, STEPHEN DORFF,
JEREMY PIVEN

Boy's night out, turns out to be a nightmare. Mike (Cuba Gooding Jr.) and his friends think they are going to watch the boxing match of their lives, but later realize that instead of cheering from the stands, they would be in the ring fighting to stay alive. Ray (Jeremy Piven) turns off the freeway in an attempt to escape the traffic jam and arrive in time for the main event. This wrong turn on to the back streets of South Chicago, put these four friends into a cross fire of violence. They had entered into a new world, outside of the safety net of suburbia, into an area where police and ambulances failed to patrol. Men's night out has turned into a war, where the amount of money in your bank account doesn't matter, amputation is relative, and only the strong survive!

Undoubtedly, Judgement Day is the best adventure filled action film of the year. Throughout the movie the audience attentively looks on with suspense ridden eyes. I became aggravated at the thought of running to the snackbar, in fear that I would miss a glimpse of the action. Not only did I find myself sitting at the edge of my seat, but a transformation from the still silence of popcorn eating, to a roar of laughter.

Cuba Gooding Jr. was electrifying in his portrayal as Mike, who is constantly reliving his macho past with his friends, later proving to really be all of a roller coaster ride, is experienced after seeing this film; "When can I get on again."

RECOMMENDATION: This is one of the best action films of the year... I rate this film a full ★★★★★ (four stars). For all ages; profanity minimized. This is a must see film.

NOW SHOWING ON THE SILVER SCREEN: A BRONX TALE: FATAL INSTINCT
