

MARYLAND STUDENT IS $10,000 WINNER OF NISSAN COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP

The dream of a college education for 16-year old Kevin L. Coles and his family are closer to becoming a reality thanks to the $10,000 sweepstakes the family won through the NISSAN CARES...ABOUT EDUCATION

SENIOR UPDATE DRIVING SKILLS

Pre-registration is required for people 55 and older to attend "55 Alive," AARP's two-day refresher driving course held at the Las Vegas Senior Citizens Center, 450 E. Bonanza Rd.

The course is offered twice monthly. Daytime sessions meet from 1-5 p.m. Evening sessions meet from 6-10 p.m.

The course is designed for drivers who experience age-related physical changes, such as declining perceptual skills. Highlights include a "rules of the road" review, local driving hazards, and accident-prevention measures.

All automobile insurance companies in Nevada provide premium reductions to graduates of "55 Alive."

Payment will not be accepted program sponsored by Nissan Corporation's Mid-Atlantic region.

The sweepstakes was created to provide financial assistance to families, like the Coles, who face the rising cost associated with a college education. Students 12-20 years of age, or in their junior year in college, were eligible for the sweepstakes. Since Kevin is a high school junior, the $10,000 will be placed in an interest-bearing trust fund which will be available for him upon his acceptance by an accredited four-year college or university of his choice. The $10,000 is not transferable and will be payable to the college in Kevin's name.

"Like most parents, we were concerned about the money needed to pay for Kevin's education," said Gerald Coles, Kevin's father. "Knowing we have a $10,000 base to build on is almost to good to be true. The whole family is still pretty excited."

Kevin currently attends Crossland High School, Camp Springs, MD, and is a member of the school's ROTC program. He plans to attend a historically black college and major in accounting and then pursue a career as a stock broker.

"Receiving $10,000 toward my college education means quite a bit to me," said Kevin. "It's becoming almost impossible to compete for good jobs with only a high school education. Because of encouragement from my parents, I've become more serious about college than I've ever been."

UNLV LIBRARY TO OFFER NEW PUBLIC SERVICE

Need up-to-date information on a scientific breakthrough, a government study, or a person in the news, but don't have the time to do the research yourself?

UNLV's new InfoQuick program — also known as the IQ program — can provide you with the information you need.

For a fee of $75 per hour, ad information specialist in the Dickinson Library at UNLV will research your question for you, using not only the resources of UNLV's libraries, but also databases and other information sources across the nation.

The IQ program can provide copies of articles from magazines, newspapers, and professional journals; company, industry, and personal profiles; hard-to-find facts or statistics; business information and news; and copies of government publications, technical reports, and standards.

Already, UNLV's IQ program has provided clients with statistics on crime against the elderly, information on the effects of environmental pollutants on children, and a copy of a technical report from the Canadian government.

ABOUT EDUCATION sweepstakes is one of several programs that are part of Nissan's overall commitment to education.

"We strongly believe that the NISSAN CARES... ABOUT EDUCATION sweepstakes is one of the best investments Nissan can make to young scholars," said G. Thomas Center, regional general manager for Nissan's Mid-Atlantic region. "Nissan is proud to sponsor educational programs that have a direct influence on the lives of students like Kevin and other young people who will provide the future leadership for the country."

The cost of individual undertakings will be determined on a project-by-project basis. The minimum time charged to a project is 30 minutes, with additional time being billed in 15-minute increments. Additional charges will be levied for such things as document purchases and telecommunication costs.

IQ is designed to provide rapid, top-quality service to people not affiliated with UNLV without impacting the library's ability to serve the educational needs of the students and faculty.
