25 BEST-NFL TRENDS

As you read on, please note that you should make many considerations before using a trend in the National Football League. Do not take this information and abuse it by thinking that every single one will win without analyzing the situation.

Although a certain trend may point to the obvious, there may be conflicting information that is warning you to stay away from the game all together. For example, the Cincinnati Bengals are 14-8 ATS (Against The Spread) since 1969 when facing the Cleveland Browns at home. This Sunday, opening day for the regular season, Cincinnati begins their '94 campaign at home against Cleveland. Don't let the Bengals' 63% winning percentage in this situation convince you to play them. As a matter of fact, Cleveland covered both games last year (-7.5/27-14, in Cleveland and -5/28-17, in Cincinnati). Also, the Bengals are 3-8 ATS in season openers the last 11 years.

While your data may prove relevant, further investigation may be needed.

Has there been a coaching change during the time that the trend was established? Who does the team face next week, and is there a trend for that situation? Although your trend is telling you to go OVER, the weather at game time is below zero and its snowing.

Questions such as these must be asked AND answered before deciding on your bet. The following trends may prove useful for you, yet without the proper investigation and analyzing of the matchup, they could end up being just a bunch of numbers.

ENJOY!!!

(If a trend will be in effect during the 1994 season, the date will follow in bold in parentheses)

Woods

then rallied to win six of the last 10 holes in the afternoon.

Woods took the lead for the first time by putting off the fringe for a birdie on the treacherous par-3, 132-yard No. 17 island hole. He finished 7-under par for the day, while Kuehne was 5-under.

"I gave it my best," said Kuehne, 22, of McKinney, Texas. "I made all of my birdies in the first 13 holes and only one in the last 23 holes, while Tiger made his birdies late in the day."

Woods, whose real name is Eldrick, has won three prestigious amateur events this year, including the Western Amateur. He won three straight junior titles from 1991-93.

PLAY PROFESSIONAL BASKETBALL

Basketball players that think they have been overlooked by the pros, will now have another chance.

According to former professional basketball player Henry Bibby, there will be tryout camps, that will be tailed by pro scouts, touring the United States very soon.
