

THEY GOT GAME

Young athletes and celebrities came out en masse to support the Greater Las Vegas Inner-City Games.

(Adjacent to Raven-Symone) Former "Different World" actress Dawn Lewis belts out a tune. (Bottom right) Soul group BLACKStreet are caught in midstep.

This year, 6,000 local children participated in the Inner-City Games educational and athletic programs. While any child between the ages of 7 and 17 living in the greater Las Vegas area can compete, the events target those children most in need of positive activities and who may not traditionally have a chance to participate in organized programs.
