charge—between 2.75 percent and 5 percent—and modest annual supervisory/maintenance fees.

• Payment options. Depending on the type of UIT you choose, interest or dividends may be paid monthly (on many bond UITs), quarterly (on many stock UITs) or twice yearly. In some trust arrangements, you may choose to automatically reinvest interest and principal distributions into the same UIT.

• Selling flexibility. You can sell a UIT at any time before maturity. When you sell, the price may be higher or lower than the original purchase price and you could incur tax consequences, depending on the current value of the underlying securities.

vehicle type and other factors identifying people police believe more likely to be involved in crimes.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that the Constitution protects motorists against selective law enforcement based on such factors as race. But the court also has ruled that police generally can stop motorists for traffic violations even when the officers are really looking for evidence of other illegal activity such as drug use.

Prosecutors have attempted to block Campbell's lawyer from mentioning race-based profiling to the jury.

The Orange County sheriff's office wouldn't comment on the case before trial, and a gag order was imposed for jury selection.

The office's spokesmen have said the department doesn't use race-based profiles. But an analysis last summer by the Orlando Sentinel newspaper showed the Orange County drug squad that patrols the Florida Turnpike carries out 6 1/2 times as many searches on black motorists pulled over in traffic as on whites.

In Campbell's case, he was stopped for an alleged improper lane change and having an obscured license tag, which has been legally challenged. Campbell disputes that he made an improper lane change.

After he was pulled over, Campbell got out of his car and handed his license to Cpl. Richard Mankewich, who is white. Campbell identified himself as a police officer and told the deputy he was carrying a gun.

Campbell also said, according to the police report: "I know you Orange County guys, you're not going to with me."

The traffic stop deteriorated into an angry verbal confrontation with Campbell finally being wrestled to the ground by deputies.

Though there is a wide variety of UITs to choose from, to help you meet your investment goals, most fall into one of two categories: Stock UITs and Bond UITs.

Stock UITs provide investors all the benefits of stock ownership, including growth potential and regular dividend income, plus the benefits of a diversified, professionally selected portfolio. These UITs are best suited for investors seeking long-term growth or wanting to combine growth with income. Keep in mind that Stock UIT income fluctuates, and you will only receive the value of the equities when sold. Most Stock UIT portfolios contain at least 10 to 30 stocks to provide a high level of diversification.

Bond UITs appeal more to investors who are looking for steady income from their investments.

Some Bond UITs can also offer tax-free income. For example, Municipal Bond UITs are exempt from federal and state taxes. Government Bond UITs are exempt from state taxes. Keep in mind a portion of the income may be subject to state, local or the alternative minimum tax.

Also remember that UITs are offered by prospectus, which contains more complete information, including charges and expenses. Please read the prospectus carefully before investing or sending money.

Like any investment, you should do your homework to determine if and how UITs fit into your portfolio. That way, you can give yourself a better chance at scoring an "A" at the school of investing.

scientists announced that humans may have contracted the disease by eating diseased beef.

No U.S. cases have ever been reported. But eating meat from cattle tainted by the disease is believed to have killed at least 20 people overseas, mostly in Britain.

The cattlemen are claiming more than $12 million in damages, citing severe price drops. Winfrey's show aired during a time when cattlemen were crippled by drought, high feed prices and oversupply.

Winfrey, and her Harpo Productions Inc. and distributor King World Productions say the show was only keeping the public informed.

"I maintain my right to ask questions and to hold a public debate on issues that impact the general public and my audience," Winfrey said shortly after the show aired.
