

Prince

(Continued from Page 2)
 "grateful journal" during the gratitude segment of the talk show host's daily program.

Driven by a need "to inspire and to motivate people and to let them realize that you can do anything if you just believe in and trust in God," he set about spreading the Gospel through music.

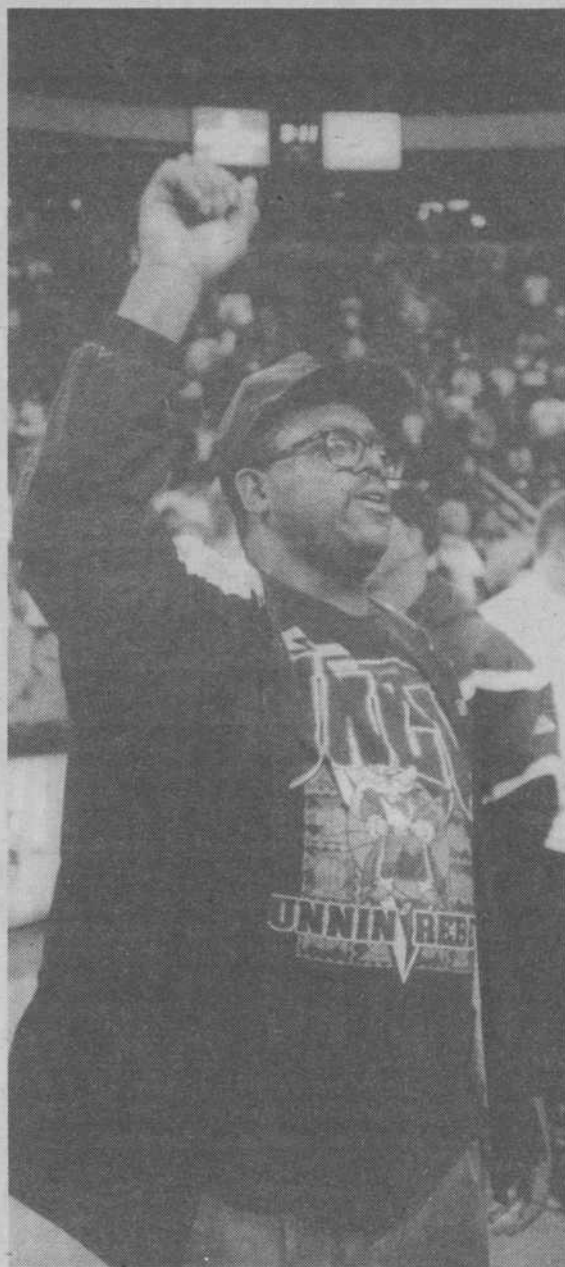

Sitting quietly in a bookstore café, Prince captures the attention of everyone in ear shot while talking about purpose and direction.

"I was raised to believe that if you don't give when you don't have, you won't give when you do have," he said.

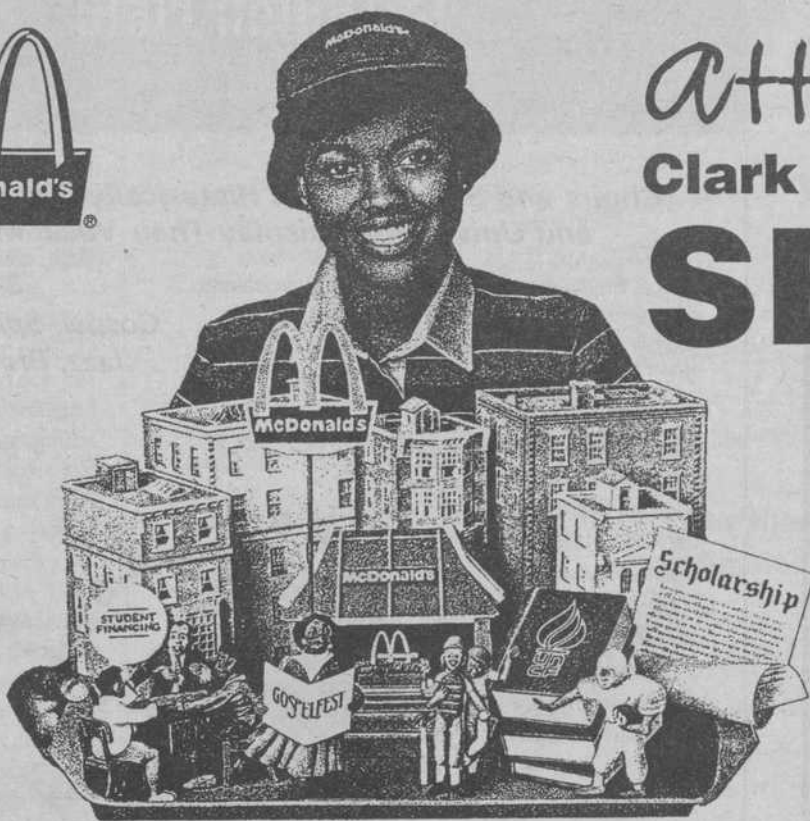

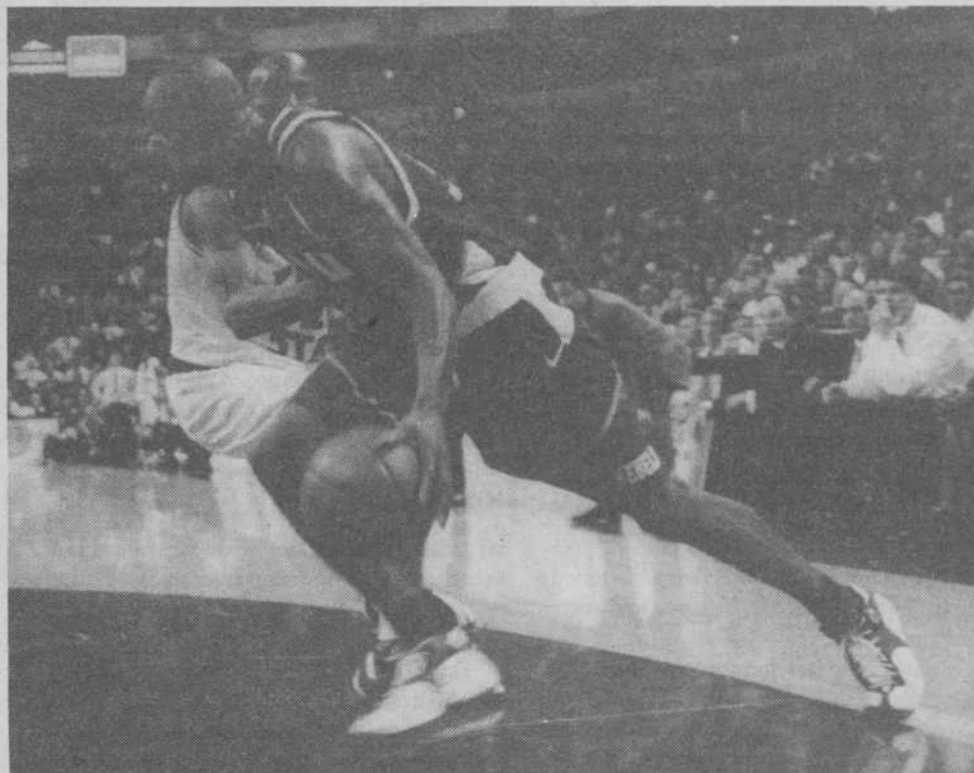

One way he gives: Working with Habitat for Humanity, a group which builds homes for low-income families.

He is also donating the proceeds of his most recent single "Still I Try" of which he produced 5,000 copies, to the Las Vegas chapter of Habitat for Humanity. He's also in "The Race for the Cure," and wrote a song for the foster children's camp, "Camp to Belong." Prince plans to put "sweat equity" into the local Habitat for Humanity house and hopes to raise the $60,000 for the project.

He said giving spirts a sense of purpose and helps him clarify the difference between needs and wants.

Rebels WAC West -
 The UNLV Runnin' Rebels surprised Hawaii, Utah, Fresno and New Mexico to win the WAC tournament. University athletic director, Charles Caragnaro along with Dr. Carol Harter, (right) proudly display the tournament trophy. Tyrone Nesby, below, drives by defenders to score a basket and a ticket to the dance for the top 64 teams in the NCAA tournament. A jubilant Rebel supporter is glad to see the team win the big one again. Sentinel-Voice photos by John Broussard

Attention Clark County High School SENIORS

Apply yourself and be the best you can be. The McDonald's Black History Makers of Tomorrow Scholarship is for all 1998 graduating seniors from Clark County High Schools (includes Pahrump, Mesquite and Laughlin). You could win money for college and be recognized by your school.

Ask your school counselor for an application and APPLY NOW! Applications also available at participating McDonald's Restaurants and at KCEP Radio.

For more information call 367-6667.

*A Great Opportunity To Earn Scholarship Money
 For College*

